GOVERNMENT OF MADRAS.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

General.
Account.

READ—the following papers :—

G.O., dated 13th February 1894, No. 343, Judicial.

From A. G. CARDEW, Esq., M.A., C.S., Inspector-General of Jails, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Ootacamund, 20th January 1894, No. 160.

I understand that Government, in the Public Works Department, has had under its consideration the subject of the supply of tents to certain classes of Government officers, and I believe that it has been resolved to make such a supply.

2. I have the honour to enclose a price list of the tents manufactured at the Vellore Central Jail and to request that the propriety of procuring the tents in question from that jail may be favorably considered in the Public Works Department. Taking into account the cost of carriage to Madras from tent-factories out of the Presidency, it will be found that the Vellore tents are the cheapest procurable from any reliable source in India, and it is believed that in quality they will be found to compare favorably with those of any maker.

3. The large saving which results to the State from the procuring of Government supplies from jails was clearly pointed out by the Finance Committee of 1886 in paragraph 182, Chapter VIII, Volume I, of its report, and I trust that this consideration will also be given due weight in the decision of the question.

Paragraph 182, Chapter VIII of the report of the Finance Committee of 1886.

The relations which should subsist between the Jail Department and the consuming departments.

182. In the letters from which these extracts are quoted, both these officers profess their desire to meet the objects which the Jail Department has in view, but it is evident that they fail to apprehend the financial bearing of the case. The practical result is equivalent to a refusal to carry out the instructions of the Secretary of State. It is obviously an extravagance for the Government in the Military Department to pay cash to third persons for doing that which the Government in the Jail Department can do without extra cost. The latter department has to maintain its factories and to feed its laborers, whether fully employed or not; and if it can buy its raw material cheaper than the Military Department can buy the finished article, it is a great economy to Government that the requirements of the Military Department should be met, as far as they can be, through the jails. The proper course is obviously that definite contracts for periodical supplies from jails, during lengthened periods, should be made between the two departments. As the Secretary of State's instructions indicate, the greatest economy is obtained when the jail industries are adapted to the requirements of consuming departments; but such adaptation is an impossibility when the consuming department reserves the right of stopping the supplies at any moment. No person in private business would dream of calling for tenders from the public for articles which he himself manufactured and had exceptional facilities for cheaply manufacturing and supplying. And it should also be remembered that many private firms which entirely admit the right of Government to supply itself from its own departments make the strongest objection, when public tenders are called for, to the right of Government departments to under-bid them. At the same time, the purchasing departments should have full power, under proper precautions, to reject all articles supplied which are not up to sample and to fix prices at the rates for which they can purchase in the open market.

ORDER—dated 10th March 1894, No. 676/A W., Public Works.

Communicated, in continuation of G.O., No. 270 W., dated 30th January 1894, to officers of the Public Works Department with the remark that Superintending Engineers must use their own discretion as to the source from which they obtain tents, the purchase of which may from time to time be sanctioned, but that they should give due weight to the possible ability of the Vellore Jail to supply tents at a cost, which, allowing for the saving in carriage, may be less than that at which tents of equally good quality can be purchased elsewhere. Ceteris paribus, the preference should be given to the local jail manufacture.
