READ—the following papers:—

From the Executive Engineer, Buckingham Canal Division, to the Superintending Engineer, II Circle, dated 8th June 1895, No. 576.

With reference to G.O., No. 1205 W., dated 20th May 1895, authorizing the Examiner to admit, under Civil Service Regulations, Article 208, the claim for pay and travelling allowance during transit of a temporary clerk on Rs. 15, transferred by me from one sub-division to the other, I have the honour to request to be informed whether G.O., No. 1092 W., dated 4th April 1892, delegating the power of passing such charges to the officers on whose establishment the officials concerned stand, is still in force, and if so, how the Examiner's contention that sanction of Government was required, was in accord with it.

2. An authentic decision on this matter is very necessary, as similar cases may arise in this and other divisions, owing to our overseer's clerks being mostly temporary men.

No. 88 B.C.

Forwarded to the Chief Engineer, Public Works Department, for favour of orders.

(Signed) W. L. C. BADDELEY, Major, R.E.,
18th June 1895. Suptg. Engineer, II Circle.

Office-note from the Examiner, Public Works Accounts, dated Madras, 18th July 1895, No. 2551 A.

[Your office-note No. 2109 C. of 24th June 1895.]

The Superintending Engineer is apparently mistaken in saying that the power of passing pay and travelling allowance, during transit, to temporary clerks has anywhere been delegated "to the officers on whose establishment the officials concerned stand." The orders promulgated with G.O., No. 1092 W., dated 4th April 1892, indeed, state that such employes "can be transferred within the jurisdiction of the officer on whose establishment are, and can draw transit pay and travelling allowances on such transfer;" but they are silent as to whose sanction is necessary to admit them to these.

2. On this point the Government of Madras delivered itself in G.O., No. 1470 W., dated 11th May 1892, as follows:—

"It is observed that the question of granting pay during transit to temporary servants should, in all cases, be submitted for the orders of Government under the Code, paragraph above quoted" (paragraph 433 A, Note I, of the late Madras Code).

But as the Madras Code is no longer in force, I would submit, for the consideration of Government, the following interpretation of the orders quoted in the preceding paragraph of this note:—

I. If chargeable to works (i).—Temporary employés may be transferred to any place within the limits of the specific work to which their pay is charged, and draw transit pay and travelling allowance without higher authority than that of the officer on whose establishment they are borne.

(ii) But if on completion of that work, or at any time during its completion, it is found necessary in the public interests to transfer them beyond the limits of it, the sanction of Government will be necessary to transit pay and travelling allowance.

Examples.

(a) A temporary employé sanctioned for the Periyár project may receive transit pay and travelling allowance if transferred to any part of that project, if his transfer is authorized by competent authority.

(b) But if he be transferred to any other division, Government sanction will be required before his title to transit pay and travelling allowance can be admitted.

II. If chargeable to establishment (i).—If temporary establishments are entertained to supplement the permanent establishment, for the general purposes of the division, the circle, or the province—whatever the unit in each case may be—the order of transfer, by competent authority, will be sufficient to admit claims to transit pay and travelling allowance.

(ii) But if such establishments are sanctioned for some specific work in a particular office, they cannot be admitted to transit pay and travelling allowance on transfer to another without the orders of Government.

Examples.

(a) Members of the temporary upper subordinate may be transferred to any part of the Presidency and draw transit pay and travelling allowance without any order of Government.

(b) Clerks sanctioned for the destruction of records in the West Coast Divisional office cannot draw transit pay and travelling allowance on transfer to a sub-divisional office in that division, unless they are sanctioned by Government.

3. This interpretation is, I think, covered by the spirit of the rules referred to, and many audit objections will be avoided if it commends itself to Government.

ORDER—dated 23rd July 1895, No. 1812 W., Public Works.

The suggestions in paragraph 2 of the Examiner's note are approved.

Your office note No. 2109 C. of 24th.
June 1895.

The Superintending engineer is apparently mistaken in saying that the power of passing pay and travelling allowance, during transit, to temporary clerks, has anywhere been delegated "to the officers on whose establishment the officials concerned stand". The orders promulgated with G.O. No. 1092 W., dated 4th April 1892 indeed state that such employees "can be transferred within the jurisdiction of the officer on whose establishment are, and can draw transit pay and travelling allowances on such transfer"; but they are silent as to whose sanction is necessary to admit them to these.

2. On this point the Government of Madras delivered itself in G.O. No. 1470 W.
dated 11th May 1892, as follows:

"It is observed that the question of granting pay during transit to temporary servants should in all cases be submitted for the orders of Government under the Code para above quoted" (para 433 A, note I, of the late Madras Code).

But as the Madras Code ^{is} no longer in force I would submit, for the consideration of Government, the following interpretation of the orders quoted in the preceding para of this note.

I. If chargeable to Works.

i. Temporary employes may be transferred to any place within the limits of the specific work to which their pay is charged, and draw transit pay and travelling allowance without higher authority than that of the officer on whose establishment they are borne.

ii. But if on completion of that work, or at any time during its completion, it is found necessary in the public interests to transfer them beyond the limits of it, the sanction of Government will be necessary to transit pay and travelling allowance.

Examples.

a. A temporary employe sanctioned for the Periyar Project may receive transit pay & travelling allowance if transferred to any part of that Project if his transfer is authorized by competent authority.

Government sanctioned before his title to transit pay & travelling allowance can be admitted.

II. If chargeable to Establishment.

i. If temporary establishments are entertained to supplement the permanent establishment, for the general purposes of the Division, the Circle, or the Province - whatever the unit in each case may be - the order of transfer, by competent authority, will be sufficient to admit claims to transit pay and travelling allowance.

ii. But if such establishments are sanctioned for some specific work in a particular office, they cannot be admitted to transit pay & travelling allowance, on transfer to another without the orders of Government.

Examples.

a. Members of the temporary upper subordinate may be transferred to any part of the Presidency and draw transit pay and travelling allowance without any order of Government.

b. Clerks sanctioned for the destruction of records in the West Coast Divisional office cannot draw transit pay and travelling allowance on transfer to a Sub-divisional office in that Division, unless sanctioned
