Sir,

When the new Sheriff's building was taken charge of, it was thought that for storing printed forms in the two side rooms of the Treasury building intended for the purpose, the old racks of the forms record rooms might be made use of, but on account of the weight of forms which have to be placed in them and partly because the racks themselves were old they have given way and are not at present in a condition to be safely used. Further they are not of sufficient height to contain the whole Stock of forms. The Executive Engineer was asked to prepare an estimate for new racks, but he states that the proposed racks will cost more
