their duties; but as this would be opposed to existing rules on the subject, I would request that the substance of the Government of India decision and its effect on the period of time allowable in a transfer of charge may be communicated to the Department for guidance.

4. If however the circumstances of any particular case require that more than one day should be spent in a transfer of charge, the releiving officer or subordinate should, if he has joining time at his credit, be treated as on joining time for the period in excess of one day so spent; or in the event of his having no joining time at his credit, the circumstances that led to the delay should be specially explained and sanction of Government to extension of joining time under the provisions of article 198 obtained.
