Sir,

I have the honor to report that the piers and face walls of the arches in the front verandah of my office building are now exposed to drift rain, especially at the north western end. -

During the late South west monsoon, the more exposed piers and the face walls of the arches carried by them, which are all of unplastered laterite stone, were ^{so} saturated with moisture that one of the piers showed signs of collapsing.
It was accordingly plastered with cement and this arrangement was found to answer satisfactorily. The Executive Engineer now proposes to plaster ^{with cement} all the front verandah piers and the arches over them and in the porch. He estimates the cost at Rs 800.

I request that sanction may be
