In G.O. 2nd August 1892, No. 1393, the Government ordered that the drinking water well at the Bellary District Jail should be converted from a dip-well into a draw-well. An estimate amounting to Rs. 460/- was accordingly prepared by the Public Works Department and was sanctioned in the marginally noted

No. 1489 Judicial, dated 19th June 1894 } orders. The work provided for in this
No. 2762 W, dated 31st October 1894 } estimate has been duly carried out

but its effect has been, not "to convert the dip-well into a draw-well" but only to build up the well in such a manner that water can now be raised from it otherwise than by dipping, provided the necessary appliances are added.

2. At present no appliances for raising water (beyond a pulley) exist, and the water is still being raised by convicts walking down the steps to the water and dipping chatties into the well. The well is one of the large, ~~see~~ square, stone-lined, excavations of considerable depth, which are common at Bellary. There is a very similar one, worked by a Môt, in the Collector's garden. The raising of the water from the Jail well, can, in future, be accomplished either by a pump or by a Môt, worked by prisoners. The provision of a pump would be the more expensive method, though it would save labour, while a Môt worked by convict labour is estimated to cost Rs. 630/-.

The water would be delivered into a stone-conduit, whence it would be run into the Jail water-carts and would be thus carted into the Jail by Convict labour. The Public Works Department has framed a "rough estimate" and if the Government approves of the proposal to provide a Môt, it is requested that the execution of the work may be sanctioned. If it is thought that a pump would be preferable, an estimate for and covering in the well for providing a pump should be prepared.

3. It will be understood that unless some means of raising the water are provided, the order of Government of 2nd August 1892, No. 1393, cannot be given effect to, and the money (Rs. 430/-) already spent will have been wasted. That expenditure was incurred in building up the sides of the well so as to enable a Môt to be fixed. A pulley has been put up, but this can only be used with handpots, with which it would take three times as long to fill a water-cart as it now does by dipping the pot into the well itself, and moreover the cart is outside an enclosure, so that the pots would have to be carried out to it thus exposing the water to as great a chance of pollution as in the process of dipping.
