of Government to the provision of the extra verandah was not obtained under

G.O. No. 1082 of 26th March 1896. Most of the Sub Registrars' Offices get on very well without pandals, which should not, it is considered, be allowed, as they are sources of danger and disfigure the buildings on the design of which much care has been bestowed.

If extra verandahs are to be provided all over the Country in lieu of these (pandals) great additional Cost will be incurred.

To,
The Chief Engineer
P.W.D. Madras

Sir,
With reference to G.O. No. 2542 W dated 2nd September 1896 calling for an explanation as to the necessity for a Verandah and for asphaltting the record room of the Sub Registrar's Office at Bhavani, I have the honor to resubmit the estimate with the following explanation.

✓ The Executive Engineer reports that the Registration Department have been in the habit of erecting a temporary pandal where an additional permanent verandah has now been provided for and that he has decided not to allow it in accordance to G.O. No. 1124 W of 11th May 1896. He however considers that

that a protection from the heat and glare is advisable in this case as it is very hot and close at Bhavani which lies low down in the Canavery Valley. I Concur with the opinion of the Executive Engineer that a permanent additional Verandah is necessary at this place, and I would ask for a reconsideration of the orders on this point.

As regards the Asphaltic floor for the record room I consider it not necessary as there seems to be no reason at present for anticipating that white ants will bore through the existing floor consisting of 6" Concrete and 2" thick tiles.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your Most Ob^d. Servant.
