Resolution.—The Government of India have had under their consideration a number of further references regarding the scope and interpretation of the orders in the resolution of the 15th November 1897, granting certain concessions to officers employed on duties connected with famine relief or the plague. The following are the chief questions raised :—

- (1) Whether concessions in excess of those allowed for famine or plague service of five months only are admissible in cases in which the service has been exceptionally arduous and meritorious, but has fallen short of the full period of ten months by an inconsiderable time ;
- (2) Whether the concessions sanctioned for officers employed on plague duty in the Bombay Presidency may be extended under the same conditions to officers who have been similarly engaged outside that Presidency ; and
- (3) Whether the concessions are admissible in the case of officers, such as Secretariat officers and heads of certain departments whose office work has been materially increased in consequence of plague or famine, but whose duties have not involved constant active service in the field.

2. The Governor-General in Council observes that the proposals involved in these references go beyond the intention of the original orders. These orders were liberally framed with the previous sanction of the Secretary of State, in the first instance, and cannot be modified to meet all the cases which may seem to lie just outside the limits prescribed. On the first point raised the instructions laid down are explicit, and in accordance with them the Governor-General in Council is pleased to rule that officers who have not been employed on duties connected with famine relief or plague for the full period of ten months prescribed by the resolution of the 15th November 1897, are not eligible for any extension of the minimum concessions admissible under the resolution. Similarly, officers who have not been so employed for five months do not come within the terms of the resolution at all.

3. As regards the second question, the case is somewhat different. Since the issue of the resolution of 15th November 1897, numerous outbreaks of plague have occurred beyond the limits of the Bombay Presidency, in combating which some officers have been strenuously employed for prolonged periods. Thus, circumstances no longer require the limitation of the plague concessions to officers of the Bombay Presidency, and the Government of India accordingly sanction their extension, subject to the conditions laid down in the resolution, to other parts of India where plague has occurred.

4. The third question under consideration, if answered in the affirmative, would have involved an important extension of the original orders, and was accordingly referred to the Secretary of State for consideration and decision. With his sanction His Excellency the Governor-General in Council is pleased to direct as follows :—

- (a) In the case of administrative officers ordinarily serving at the head-quarters of the Government of India or of a Local Government whose duties have brought them into actual contact with famine or plague, the concessions may be granted at the discretion of the Government of India or of the Local Government, as the case may be, if the conditions laid down in the original resolution are fulfilled.
- (b) Secretariat and other officers whose additional work in connection with famine or plague has been office work, are not regarded as having been employed on duties connected with famine or plague within the meaning of the resolution, and are not eligible for the concessions.

Order—Ordered, that this resolution be communicated to the departments* of the Government of India, to the several Local Governments and Administrations, to the heads of departments under the Finance Department, and to all Accountants-General and Comptrollers.

Your Office Note No.2257 C dated

Your para I. By the expression "Officers and Subordinates of the Accounts establishment of the P.W.D" I mean all Accounts officers and subordinates, whether employed in Famine Districts or in the Central office, whose duties were made "unusually arduous" in consequence of famine, and who have not been in any way specially remunerated for those duties. But it is not only in connection with Accounts men that I should like the enquiry made.

2. It would seem from the Government of India Resolution under notice that the intention is to extend the concessions to all officers i-e whether Superintending Engineers, Executive Engineers or the Eqm and to members of their respective establishments wherever employed, provided the necessary conditions have been fulfilled. is borne out by the view taken by the Local Government in para 2 of the G.O. under reference; but the word "apparently" as used in that para still leaves an element of doubt, and it is necessary for purposes of auditing such claims that the Order should be framed in the clearest and most unmistakeable language: hence my suggestion to make quite sure on the point by a reference to India.

3. Your para 2. It seems to me quite clear that no special significance is attachable to the term "specially appointed" as read by itself, and that the context shews that that term must be read in conjunction with the second condition viz: that the officer was not specially remunerated. A large number of officers and Subordinates who were utilized for Famine duty come under this Category, and it is evidently to such cases that the rule is intended to apply.

OFFICE NOTE No. 460 A/E.

To

V.

With reference to para 2 of G.O. No. 620 W of the 9th. March 1898 in which it is stated that the grant of concessions to officers employed on duties connected with famine relief apparently applies to all officers, whether Executive or not, I beg to point out the desirability of Government being asked to move the Government of India for a definite ruling as to whether the orders in question apply to officers and subordinates of the Accounts Establishment of the P.W.D.

2. Also that there is an apparent error in clause (iii) of that para, the word "not" in the first line having been inserted between "has" and "been" instead of between "and" and "remunerated" in the same line.
