DATED 4 Dec 1899.

[Despatch Abstract.]

M. R. Py. J. R. Rathnam Iyer, Acch. 7th grade.

Declining to grant the extension of leave without allowances applied for by — appointed by the Travancore Durbar as an Accountant in its P. W. D.

Note for His Excellency the Governor

Leave without allowances to an Accountant

With reference to His Excellency's remarks dated 4th instant, it is submitted that the orders regarding the period of lien to be allowed, which will be found briefly summarized in para 29 of Mr. Meyer's letter printed in G.O. No. 615 Incl. dated 16th July 1898 flagged D, all relate to the cases of officers of one Govt. dept. serving on probation or temporarily in another Govt. dept. In these cases the officers draw salary from Govt. & their service counts for pension. These orders do not apply to the case of

of this Accountant which is governed by the Resolution of the Govt. of India printed in G.O. No 662 Fwdl dated 5th June 1898 flagged E - please see the sentence marked with blue chalk.

The Accountant in question has taken leave service in a Native State, & so far as this Govt. is concerned he is simply on leave without allowances, & the period of this leave does not count for pension. An Officer can be granted leave without allowances up to five years under Art. 222 C.S. Regulations & that is the only limit which can be applied to this case. It is is submitted that there is no objection to the grant of the leave applied for as it causes no inconvenience to the Accounts Establishment.

I think I have not made clear the point I wish to draw attention to, and that is, that the objection to a man holding one post and retaining his title on another post is, that both officers concerned remain unsettled and disorganized.
When such a time is necessary because a man is only on probation in a higher post, the evil has to be put up with. But the evil should not be prolonged more than is necessary and avoidable. In the present case, I can see no good reason for prolonging it.
The man's period of probation is over, and he has been permanently appointed. It is simply to suit his own convenience and to have a good post to fall back upon in the event of his becoming dissatisfied with his new post, that the man is in this case wishes to retain his term. His request should be refused.

It appears that this extra year is asked for simply for this Office's own convenience. Is there not some rule forbidding the grant of a term on an appointment, for any unnecessary length of time?

BACK PAPERS.

No.	Date.
1898 granted a year's leave without allowances to enable him to accept the appointment. The Accountant is reported to be working well, but before severing his connection with the British service, he wishes further experience of his work & prospects in Travancore, & accordingly applies for another year's leave without allowances. The Chief Engineer, Travancore, recommends that the extension be granted, & the Examiner endorses the recommendation on the distinct understanding that no further extension will be allowed.
It is submitted that the Examiner's recommendation may be accepted.
