Resolution.—A question having been raised as to whether a Military officer, who receives officiating promotion under the Code rules read in the preamble in place of an officer on field service, can reckon that officiating promotion as temporary rank for the purpose of calculating his half departmental staff pay when he himself is subsequently ordered on field service, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to rule as follows.

2. An officer of the Public Works Department detached on field service has a claim to any officiating or temporary rank he may be holding at the time of being ordered on such service, for so long as he would have continued to hold it had he continued serving in the department. During such period the pay of that temporary rank should be made the basis of the half departmental staff pay he is to draw while on field service.

But an officer officiating in a higher class for an other officer so detached under paragraph 90, Public Works Department Code, Volume I, Chapter I, should he himself be thereafter ordered on field service, has no claim to any similar advantage arising from rank which he has obtained owing to the absence of another officer on field service. He is, for the purpose of calculating his half departmental staff pay while on field service, entitled only to the substantive or temporary rank which he would otherwise have held.

This rule is applicable to the Military Works Department.
