 Disease or cause of disability - Chronic disease of ankle joint.
 Abstract statement of case - States that about 2 1/2 years ago an abscess formed at the inner aspect of his right ankle joint. Subsequently a similar abscess formed at the outer aspect. Ulcers are left at both the sides of the joint and communicate with the joint.

The joint is considerably enlarged & deformed.

He is consequently unable even to stand.

He is very weak & emaciated and anemic.

Nothing short of amputation, will in my opinion, cure the disease.

Smt Kara Appadu (who is one of the arbitrators) found a wound below the left eye of the body, besides the deformity of the jaw of the deceased. The arbitrators got the Dequest Report (marked B and produced before the Court) drawn up - They could not come up to any conclusion about the Cause of death. So the Station Officer of Pottor sent the body for Examination to the 12th witness (Assistant Apothecary) S. A. Appandam Pillay at Panidig who conducted post mortem Examination on the body on the 3^d and 4th April 1888 and gave the Certificate marked A produced before the Court.
The Assistant Apothecary found the body much decomposed. He found a hole about the size of a half trupce on the left side of the face below the left eye of the body. It was about three quarters of an inch deep and was an irregular wound (not inflicted with a sharp instrument but with a blunt instrument). He found the upper and lower grinders and the left lower wisdom tooth much loose. He found the left superior maxillary bone fractured.
He removed easily three splinters of

of the bone. He found the bone communicating with a cavity in the upper jaw.
He was of opinion that the looseness of the teeth was due to injuries; and that the injuries were caused probably by two or three blows from the same blunt instrument where was the evidence of the his sandal against the deceased.

He found no deformity of the jaw of the deceased, where as the 1st & 2^d & 12th witnesses said the jaw of the deceased was deformed. He said that death in this case might have occurred from other causes, besides the injuries.
He could not give opinion about the real cause of death. After the death was reported to the Inspector of Police of Varanasi he sent the 3^d witness Raji Asirigadu to the Station of Gwady whether he could recognise the Constable who committed the crime. The 3^d witness R. Asirigadu recognised the defendant among the Constables of the Station. After-
