On 6th December 89 I inspected Kootenai Station. Head Constable 1122 had very recently been transferred from that station to Panoor, he was sent for and was present during inspection. He took charge of Kootenai Station in January 89; during the year six cases of theft were reported, only one resulted in conviction, one was discharged after trial, and the remaining four were referred as false. Six house breaking and theft were reported; one only detected, three were referred as false, and one discharged after trial. Kootenai Cognizable Cases of importance were reported. I examined the Head Constable at some length in regard to his reasons for referring several of the Cases and was by no means satisfied with his answers, but having no cause to believe he had acted dishonestly merely warned him that if he could not show better results in his new post at next inspection I should be obliged to

to recommend his reduction for incompetency.
During the current year he has been working very unsatisfactorily and was on several occasions warned again. The following abstract of more important cognizable crime speaks for itself.
Six Cases of theft reported direct and 3 referred by Magistrate for enquiry one only detected. Two discharged after trial. Six referred as false. Three Cases of House-breaking and theft reported. One was discharged after trial, one referred as false, the other remains undetected. In two Cases of theft nos 39 and 40 the bonafide of the Head-Constable's investigation appeared so doubtful that I called for judgments in the Cases (both were discharged after trial) and gave the Head Constable a personal hearing to explain his conduct.
In Case no 39 one Sankaran Nambyar was accused of stealing from the house of one "Kunnappan" some logs of wood, 6 or 7 days before the 3rd June.
On which date the said Kunnappan made his complaint to the S. H. Officer at Panoor Station.
S. H. Officer accompanied the Complainant to accused's house and there received another complaint from one Krishnan Nambyar that he had lost a log of wood and suspected the same man had stolen it. Accused's house was searched and from the Verandah certain wood which Carpenters were working on was taken and confiscated after being claimed by the

by the Complainant in Case number 39—The Head Constable then examined the Carpenters who amongst other things, stated that the accused generally gave them one log at a time which he brought from the Paramba to work upon. This fact aroused his suspicions (it is presumed that Krishnan Nambyar's log might be concealed somewhere) The Paramba was thereupon searched and 100 yards from the house the Head Constable succeeded in unearthing a small log which was identified by the Complainant (Case no. 40)— It is alleged that the accused (presumably overcome by this discovery) Confessed that he had stolen wood from Krishnan Nambyar adding that he had concealed more in the loft of his house.
All then repaired to the house and Constables removed several rafters or lengths of wood from the loft. It is evident that this wood must have escaped the notice of the S. H. Const. and Constable when they searched the house.
This being the case it was decidedly foolish of the accused to draw their attention to it; more especially as Complainant apparently was not aware that he had lost more than one log until the accused Confessed to having stolen several. The Head Constable after sending on the wood recovered, returned to Panoor.

The

The following day witnesses arrived at the Station and in the 1st Case one ^{said} ~~said~~ he sold the wood recovered to the Complainant and another said that he met accused near complainant's house on date of offence carrying a log of wood on his shoulder. In Case No. 40 one witness said Complainant's wood was in his care that one morning he noticed some of it had been stolen and reported the matter to Complainant. Another said he met the accused on the date of offence late at night carrying wood on his shoulders. The Cases were charged on this evidence and as a very natural result the accused was acquitted. Before the Magistrate Constable 1212 contradicted himself more than once in reference to the finding of the wood belonging to the Complainant in Case No. 40 and so strengthens a very reasonable suspicion that the whole affair is a myth existing only in the imagination of the Complainant and a few others. Then again the recovery of the solitary log was a remarkable business; for, in a short time one small log was found buried in a Pampa of considerable size 100 yards from the house; and the head Constable says he was led to dig near that particular spot because ^{the}

the ground has been recently turned, and head sewn there. I could not appreciate the connection and questioned the Head Constable to explain it, he merely reported repeated the statement. He may mean to convey that the accused intended cultivating a small garden over the buried log to avert suspicion but remembering that the accused was using one by one all the logs of wood he had stolen this idea becomes absurd. In Conclusion I would draw attention to the statements of the Complainant (in Case No. 39) regarding the discovery of the theft. To the Police he said that on his return from Kadathavadi, his women had apprised him of it. Before the Magistrate he stated that he discovered his loss whilst turning over wood stored in one of the rooms of his house. The Head Constable has nothing to say in self defence. He gave me an account of what he had done and requested pardon if he had done wrong. His statement is attached with Copies of Magistrate's Judgment in Cases 39 and 40. It has now to be decided whether the Head Constable is a knave or a fool. I cannot positively accuse him of being ^{the}
