Sir,

In Continuation of my letter No 67 of 28th October 1896, I most respectfully beg to report that I feel myself becoming quite weak, my eyesight is failing, and my hands tremble owing to an attack of fever I had lately. My memory also is failing and on that account I find it very difficult to carry on my duties in as satisfactory a manner as I would wish to do. I therefore humbly request that you will be kind enough to bring these circumstances to the notice of Secretary to Surgeon-General with the Government of Madras and recommend me for pension.

My services book will indicate my ages & services up to date. I like to retire from the services from the 15th November 1896.

In Conclusion I beg to state that five days casual leave already prayed for is insufficient as I must have long and proper rest.

I beg to remain
