Ste also states that on 26th the Const. No. 1172. did not give the Inspector's 2nd. order until 5.30 P.M (The Constable says he gave it at 3.30 P.M.) and that at the time there were only 2 Constables in the Station he thought fit not to obey the Inspectors Order and sent it on by express.

This defaulter is frivolous.

I therefore award him one Black Mark for detaining to forward some forms that were urgently required.

This under Police order No. 76 entails this reduction. As on 6.6.96 he was awarded one B.M. for making false entries in some orders and this by the Inspector and as now a Black mark and warned for reduction for disobeying the Inspectors repeated orders by detaining important papers.

I therefore recommend he be reduced to 2nd Cl. Head Constable

This Head Constable arrived at Ramnad in the year 1885 and has been in charge of that station since then, he has done nothing in the way of detection as will be seen from the following rough statement.

Of House Breakings, the most important crimes of this station, there has been no detection. The Head Constable is next to useless. I therefore reduce him in accordance with the remarks made by the Superintendent Deputy Inspector General and Inspector General of Police on my inspection Report of the Ramnad Station. He was enlisted on 18th December 1868, Has 19 defaulters against him, was reduced to under the Black mark system on 29th July 1886 for delaying to forward some forms that were urgently required.

He was suspended from 23rd May to the 13th July 1887 for most suspicious conduct and insufficient

Defaulter order no 411

3rd Grade Head Constable no 858 Ramaswamy Naidoo is reduced to 4th Grade and the whole of the period of absence ie 21 days from 3rd to 23rd July 95 (inclusive), from his station (Keeranur)
to be reckoned as leave without pay.

Minute

3rd Grade Head Constable no 858 Ramaswamy Naidoo
was transferred from Veerapandi station
Chinnamanoor Division to Keeranur station Palany Division on 5th March 95. He joined his new station on 9th April 1895.

2. He was summoned to give evidence on 5th
July 95 before the Uthamapolaim Sub Magistrate in a case of House Breaking investigated by him whilst in charge of Veerapandi. He left Keeranur station on 3rd July 95 but did not reach Uthamapolaim until 7th July 95 thereby disobeying the summons of the Court and necessitating the hearing of the case being postponed to the 26th of July.

3. The Head Constable's explanation regarding his failure to attend Court is that he only left Keeranur on the 3rd July and missed the mail train at Dindigal on the 4th in consequence of which he only left Dindigal on the evening of the 5th reached Periakulam on the 6th and passing through Veerapandi reached Uthamapolaim on the 7th. On appearing at the Sub Magistrates office he says he was told by a gumastah that the case had been posted to the 26th July

6
1355

4. From the 7th July until he rejoined his station on 24th July 95, he cannot satisfactorily account for his time. His explanation consists of

of sentences strung together in which he tries to propound a theory that his line of conduct was all for the best sir.

"The case having been postponed for 19 days, he did not think it worthwhile to return to his station the journey there and back, occupying 12 days which would only have given him 6 days time" to remain at Keeranoor. So he thought it better to go to Gudalur, and look after the witnesses who were wanted. There from the 14th to 16th, he halted at Vithanapolian and said after leaving word with Constable Saukaralingam Pillai to search for the 17th witness he went to Ammayanaikanoor to get some money, to pay his way, from his cousin. At Ammayanaikanoor hearing a murder had occurred at Keeranoor on the 15th July, he thought it best to return there at once.

5. He reached his station on 24th July 95.

6. The Head constable by his argument gives himself away. If he required 6 days to perform the journey either way, it is quite evident that for some reason or other he did not intend to be at Vithanapolian on the 5th because he did not give himself enough time.

7. As a matter of fact he did give himself sufficient time and his excuse for not at once returning to his station is absurd. He had ample time to have done 13 days' work at his station.

8. The idea of his coming all the way from Vithanapolain to Ammayanaikanoor 55 miles by road to get a few Rupees is quite preposterous and is one of the flimsiest excuses which I will not accept.

9. From the very first the Head constable did all he could to remain at Veerapandi as as long as possible. He winds up his explanation with the following advice:

"In case of transfer from one station to another at a far distance, if any Police officer of the former station has to give evidence in any case of the former, I request he may be specially detained in the former station until the case in which he is concerned is disposed of which being interpreted is equivalent to "no transfer order need be obeyed until it suits the pleasure or convenience of the recipient.

10. From the whole of his conduct it is patent that when he left his station he intended to remain away as long as he could. When the Case was postponed he should have reported himself for orders to the Inspector of the Division in which he was, and he should in any case have reported his movements to his own Divisional Inspector. He failed in both these duties

1. I find that he wilfully, or without sufficient Cause, disobeyed a Summons duly served upon him to appear before the Vithanapolian Sub Magistrate on 5th July 95. and that he further failed to appear before the said Magistrate on 26th July 95 the date to which the case was postponed in Consequence of his failing to appear on 5th July 95.

2. That on finding on the 7th July, the case in which he was concerned had been postponed to the 26th July, the Head constable failed to report himself for orders to the Gr Division Inspector under whose orders he was for the time being and further that he failed to report his movements to his own Divi. Inspector.

Inspector.

3. That from the 3rd July to the date of his returning to his station, he had not been able to satisfactorily account for his time.
