3. Of 13 Stock Inspectors, 6 have already been served with notice of discharge and have presumably been relieved and it is proposed to retain the remaining 7, in employment chiefly in connection with the Bacteriological survey. The Inspector General Civil Veterinary Department and the Board of Revenue, however, recommend the retention of the officers who have received notice, in order that they may be placed in charge of Veterinary dispensaries to be started at selected places. The question has been carefully reconsidered and the Government has come to the conclusion that, apart from the feasibility of establishing such dispensaries – a measure which is in any case for the present

inexpedient for financial reasons, it would be undesirable to place them in charge of Stock Inspectors, who have been pronounced to be unfit for the post of senior Veterinary Assistants; and whose inferiority might prejudice the success of an experiment in that direction. As the Inspector-General and the Board are agreed that not more than 7 Inspectors are really required for the Bacteriological Survey and the other Veterinary works now requiring attention, it follows that there is no sufficient reason for the reinstatement in the public service of the 6 inspectors whose services have been dispensed with, and the notice of discharge which they have received cannot therefore be withdrawn.

Enc. No. file to D's General Reg. No. 5225 of 1897

Order. Mis No: 3891, Revenue, dated 29th September 189

The Government observes that in paragrap 13 of Board's Proceedings, dated 16 November 189 No 369, disposed of in the first order read above the Board of Revenue expressed doubts as to whether some of the Stock Inspectors now employed in the Civil Veterinary departmen would ever be fitted for appointments as Inspecting Veterinary officers, while from paragraph 12 of Board's Proceedings, dated 27 July 1896, No 176, reviewed in the second order read above, it appears that the Superintendent can only place confidence in three or four of the Stock Inspectors under his control. In these circumstances and in view of the fact that the annual report goes to show that several of these officers turn out a quantity of work which is incommensurate with their pay, the Government considers that the Board should no longer delay giving the usual three months' notice of discharge to those among them who are unfit for employment as Veterinary Inspecting officers and cannot be suitably provided for otherwise. It is observed that special reports regarding the abilities of each Stock Inspector have already been called for by the Board.
