Cl. No 574/98

To,

The District Munsif
Bellary

Affidavit given by B. Raghavendra Rao clerk of the Court.

I was doing the business of the Bench clerk in the late District Munsif's court of Adoni. At the time of attending the Bench every day I used to take records in the suits posted to the date from the Record Keeper, get the orders passed in the suits till evening and again in the evening hand over the records to the Record Keeper. I used to receive the records, in which ~~were~~ the judgments were yet to be written, from the Record Keeper, and take the records to the Munsif's house and give them (to him). After he wrote judgments, I used to bring the Records and give them to the Record Keeper. While the practice was such, one record was missing. Then I represented the truth. Thereupon (the District Munsif) was displeased with me. Thinking that the record was somehow missing between the Bench clerk and the Record Keeper, he reported (the matter) to the District Court.
