From the Acctt. Genl.

Dated 17th June 1898. No. 2AE 163.

FOR ORDERS.

In her letter No 2676 d/28th April 1898, the Inspectress of Girls' Schools, Northern and Central Circles has raised the question whether in cases where inferior servants enter Govt. service at an age which precludes the grant of any retiring allowance to them under art. 292 CSR, it will not be sufficient to submit their service books to Govt. showing their age at the time when they were entertained in the service, in view to avoid a 'serious waste of time' entailed in the preparation of a regular pension application - The Director of Public Instruction and the Acctt. Genl. through whom the above letter has been forwarded to Govt. invite attention to G.O. $\frac{479}{3-9-77}$ & $\frac{719}{20-6-90}$ Pension wherein Heads of Depts. were informed that they are not at liberty to refuse to submit to Govt. applications by their subordinates for pension or gratuity even though prima facie no retiring allowance is admissible under the rules and that the Govt. reserves to itself the right to reject such applications.

A somewhat similar question as the one above referred to was mooted by the Examt. of P.W. accts. in his letter No. 1080 X. d/11th Augt. 1888 (flag A) disposed of in G.O. 1071 d/11th Sep^r 1888. From these papers it will be seen that the Examiner's query, whether the detailed verification of the services of an applicant for pension should be made by an Acctt. Genl. even when there is an obvious flaw in the applicant's title barring the grant of pension, was answered in the affirmative as it was considered desirable for the reasons set forth in the office note (flag B) that the Govt. should have complete information before it in deciding on all such cases. Submitted that the grounds on which the above decision was based more or less apply to the question now under consideration. The cases of inferior servants who are debarred by art. 392 from obtaining a pension are of rare occurrence, and if their service ^{Registers} are kept duly verified while they are in service, as required by the rules, there can be no difficulty in the preparation of a formal application. Moreover, an inferior servant might have been re-employed after discharge on account of abolition of appointment or ill health &c, and, unless a regular application is prepared, the fact of his having been previously employed which will in most cases render the applicant eligible for a retiring allowance under the note to art. 392, may probably escape the notice of the Head of his office. In these circumstances it is considered desirable to require the submission of a formal application in the cases referred to.

To

THE DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION, MADRAS.

SIR,

Referring to G.O. No. 268 (communicated by your endorsement No. 4780) rejecting an application for a retiring allowance, I have the honour to report as follows:

- It was a forgone conclusion from the beginning of the correspondence that the application must be rejected, because the applicant entered the Service after he had attained the age of 40 years. Yet, according to G.O. No. 479, the application had to be carefully checked and returned for correction and the whole correspondence about it includes as many as 17 letters. Two similar applications were submitted to your office in this office Nos. 2221 and 2477, the three applications involving hours of checking by clerks and the writing altogether of about 51 letters.
- As this seems a serious waste of time that can be ill spared, I venture to ask whether, in cases where the applicants enter Government Service at an age which precludes pension, it will not be sufficient to submit their service books, showing their age at the time when they were entertained in the service.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient Servant,
