Pm/179

Submitted. Shaikh Ali, who was employed as a 2^d Class Constable of the Melore Police, was, in January '99, deputed to Vellore, for employment on plague duty. He remained there up to 9th March '99, when on being relieved, he returned to Melore. Two days afterwards, viz. on the 12th March 1899, he was attacked with plague and died on the 20th Idem. The Inspector General of Police states that the Constable died of plague contracted in the discharge of his duties therewith, while the District Medical and Sanitary Officer of Melore states that he knows nothing as to the Constable having been killed in the execution of his duty. Should Government consider with reference to the correspondence embodied in F.O.
