I certify that I have examined Tridar-Punt. Rehear of Kullial and that although he is not labouring under any actual disease, still from the usual infirmities incidental to old age I consider him quite unfit for further service - he states that he is 67 years of age, and I consider he is at all events over
- 60.

I am unable to say that the individual on whose behalf this application is made, has proved himself an efficient servant, and he has moreover been suspended for a period of six months, during his service for misconduct.

4. As however he was again allowed to return to his post, and his late failings are attributable probably to old age and infirmity rather than to intentional supineness I trust I may be allowed to submit his case for the favorable consideration of Government with a view to his receiving a pension at the rate of $\frac{1}{3}$ his present salary although I am unable to recommend him for the full amount of pension, which his length of service would enable me to do, Could I report favourably on his Character and past Conduct.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant

Taking into consideration however his advanced age and long service, the Collector begs to recommend that a pension equal to one-third of his average salary may be granted to the applicant, instead of the higher rate to which length of service would entitle him, could the Collector report favourably on the Peishcar's Character and past Conduct.
