Respected Sir,

I beg respectfully to approach you with these few humble lines, and to submit for your favorable consideration that since Gov^{ts} were pleased to grant to a small pension for the maintenance of myself and Children, I have endeavored to the utmost to support ourselves with the small pittance, but regret to bring to your notice that my Eldest Son George, though he has been employed in the Chief Engineers Office and now comes 30 Rupees a month, I have not been so fortunate to enjoy a pie of his income for the last 2 years, on account of his extravagant life, in not having attained the age of 18 on the 14th of last month, and according to the provision of the grant of pension. I should have reported to you the circumstances immediately after, but having been ailing with fever nearly one month I was unable to do so until this, and as I have 3 Daughters and 2 sons, one of the latter being entirely lame, to maintain ourselves, myself. I trust that you Sir, who had been informed of the various incidents of the troubles and miseries of my life and that of my 5 Children, since my Eldest Son had been employed. Under these circumstances, I implore you will take pity on me and my Children and recommend my case for the favorable consideration to Government for a continuance of the pension granted to me without any reduction, in consideration of the long
