							His conduct previous to being taken charge of the Civil Hospital has been all that could be desired. He has been allowed to wear his uniform, and he has not been in the least way deficient in his conduct and in his service. In my letter to the Surgeon General I have stated that the Surgeon General has been under the impression that the Surgeon had been discharged, but that the Surgeon had been retained in his position and was already paid for a year. I have further stated that the Surgeon had been discharged from his position and was already paid for a year. I have further stated that the Surgeon had been discharged from his position and was already paid for a year.
