Memorandum.

Letter from the Inspector General of Police dated Madras 31st Jan.
1870 No 622.

The Inspector General of Police applies for a gratuity on behalf of a constable who died in hospital of bronchitis, and requests that it may be made payable to his widow.

Superannuation Fund Rules:

I. That a compassionate allowance (gratuity) be made to all Police Officers who may be incapacitated from causes not the result of their own impecuniousness as certified by a Surgeon, within any period above 7 and under 15 years, at rates not exceeding &c.

I submit that the working of Rule I of the Superannuation Fund Rules, though not express on point, shows with sufficient clearness that the rule was not intended to apply to cases like the present. The medical certificate merely states the fact of his death, and it does not appear that his illness was considered such as might have incapacitated him for further service had he lived. Gratuity should only be given on discharge (though the rule does not contain this word) on account of certified incapacity for further service. I have drafted on the letter an order in accordance with this view.

with an enclosure

Order Number 121 March 1870 No 95

The foregoing application for a gratuity for the ^{late} constable Mather 1829 appears to be admissible. The constable on whom being it is claimed was not discharged from the force as ^{having become} incapacitated for further service, but died in the Police hospital while under treatment for his wounds, and his husband has the gratuity which would have been payable to him had he been able to claim. This shall now be taken into the consideration. This case the Govt cannot sanction.
