the order placing Police Officers on Salaries of Rs 20 and upwards under the Uncovenanted Civil Service rules, and relieving them of subscription to the Fund, was applied to the Madras Town Police. He had been appointed in January 1851 a Constable on Rs 50 per mensem, and was appointed sergeant in April 1867.

2. The question is whether he is to be pensioned under the Uncovenanted Civil Service rules which give him Rs 29 per mensem, or under the Police rules rules under which his pension would be Rs 30.

3. The Government are of opinion that his case is entirely different from that of Toole's case, on the analogy of which, it is sought to give him the benefit of the Police rules. The discretion given to Government in connection with that case was to admit, to pension under the Police rules, men who had been transferred a short time before their retirement to posts of more than Rs 20 pay and then placed under the Uncovenanted Civil Service rules, which strictly applied would would give them gratuity only. Here however the applicant was one of those who came under the general order at the time it was applied to the force; he has completed more than 5 years service since then; and he is entitled to pension in any case.

4. The Governor in Council therefore resolves to grant to him under Cl. III Section 6 of the revised rules, a pension of Rs 29 per mensem payable from
