Report of the Accountant General

In forwarding the application of Rayapureddi Kondappa for pension, the undersigned would submit that any claim has been vitiated by the extraordinary delays and neglect of the claimant: he first applied after a lapse of five years, and seems to have rested content therewith. Such services as have not been traceable in the records of this Office nor is it certified in any way by local records, and under these circumstances, after so long a time, it is quite impossible to ascertain what was the manifest^{ment}ation, or the ^{real} circumstances of his removal from Government employ. It will be observed that he could have no claim at all unless he had served continuously by full thirty years for his claim rests on Financial Order 6251, dated 11th December 1863, and he himself admits that not mentioning their durations, and admits also that at times he was only acting for Absentia, and such acting appointments of course would not count.

Order thereon 10th May 1872. No. 374.

Raya Puredi Bondappa was thrown out of employ in the year 1862, and applied for a compassionate allowance in August 1867, - but took no further steps to prosecute his claim until November last.
His services cannot be verified from the records and in his affidavit he admits the existence of breaks, and that a portion of his service was passed in acting appointments, though not stating the duration of those non-qualifying periods.

The

2. The Honorable the Governor in Council decides that the delay on the part of the applicant in taking steps to re-establish his claim, coupled with the untimely appearance of the proof eventually adduced, must be held to bar his claim and resolves to refuse to grant of a compassionate allowance in his case.
