My dear Gattin.

The new rates
of pay for Constables came into force
fr. 1st July 1871. They were sanctioned to have effect fr. 1st April but the men only drew
the increased rate
fr. 1st July - The rates are not no.

Accountant General's Office,

Madras, 31 July 1872.

My dear Cotton

I can only imagine that the S. G. of Police used the phrase better pay as meaning pay proper exclusive of any house or other allowance -

There never was such a salary to a constable as Rs 7.3.6 - Their pay was always in even

Super as far as I remember & 6 fees
in the & Super were deducted in acct of the Super Fund -

Memo for Orders.

I regret to state that I have been in error in applying clause VII of the New Rules for the regulation of the retiring allowances of members of the Police Force to certain recent cases. That clause is clearly ~~inoperative~~ in this Presidency, the new rates of pay assigned to the Police having been declared to be not rates vide G. O. 24th March 1871 para 21 & 3rd October 1871 No 1374 para 5. These orders were not communicated to the Pension Department nor ^{was} the officiating Accountant General or his Deputy aware of them. Only two orders, however, were issued before the discovery

Discovery of the error, as immediately I began to entertain doubts ^{in regard} ~~as~~ to the applicability of the ~~claim~~ clause in question the passed drafts were detained.

In G. O. 18th September 1872 No 714 a deduction of $\text{Rs } 1-3-6$ ^{each} was made from the gratuities of 2 Constables and in
G. O. 24th September 1872
No 717 a deduction of 2 annas and 6 pirs
per month was made from one pensioner
of 7 pirs from another.

I request permission to rectify the error
in the case of the drafts which have not gone out and in the case of the four men who have not got the full amount to which they are entitled.

I presume the loss
must be made good.
The amounts are however very trifling -

EDINGS of the MADRAS GOVERNMENT.

Read the following letter

The
Dated 17th December 1872 No. 880.

The provisions of Clause VII of the Rules promul-gated in Financial Resolution dated 19th July 1871 No 2091 which are rendered inoperative as far as this Presidency is concerned by the provisions of Para 3, G.O 24th March 1871, having been erroneously applied in the cases specified below, the Account-ant General is requested to give retrospective effect to the following corrections.

In G.O 15th September
1872 No. 714, the gratuities granted to the two constables mentioned therein

therein should have been Rupees 39 instead of Rupees 37.12.6.

In G.O. 24th September
1872 No 777 the pension sanctioned in the case of 1st Class Constable Mohammed Kassim No 88 should have been Rupees 5.10.11 instead of Rupees 5.8.5, and in case of 2nd class Constable Kassim Ali No 521 the pension should have amounted to Rs 2.5.11
instead of Rupees 2.5.4.
