Proceedings of the Madras Government, Judicial Department,
19th August 1873.

No. 86. Read the following:—

To His Excellency the Right Hon. LORD HOBART, Governor in Council, Fort St. George.

The humble Petition of C. J. COELHO,
Sheristadar of the lately-abolished Court of Principal Sadr Amin of Mangalore.

May it please your Lordship in Council,—That your petitioner was employed as Sheristadar in the Principal Sadr Amin's Court, abolished on the 14th March last, from April 1867 to the date of its abolition, and, as the present Sub-Judge, Mr. Kunju Menon, has rejected your petitioner's claims to re-employment on the establishment since sanctioned by Government, and the Acting District Judge, Mr. Burnell, has declined to interfere stating that he has no power in the matter, your petitioner has no other means of obtaining redress but to have recourse to your Lordship in Council. He therefore humbly ventures to lay his unfortunate case before your Lordship in Council and trusts that it will meet with such consideration as from its unprecedented hardship it may be found deserving.

2. The reasons assigned by Mr. Kunju Menon for rejecting your petitioner's claims are, as stated in the accompanying copy of his order—first, that the new establishment was not sanctioned in lieu of the one abolished, and that consequently your petitioner has no claims whatever to the post of Sheristadar or any other post in his Court; secondly, that the Court of which your petitioner was the Sheristadar being transferred to Cuddalore your petitioner ought to have, if he had the intention of holding his post, followed that Court to Cuddalore; and thirdly, that he, the Sub-Judge, is not bound to appoint any one whom he does not consider fit to hold the office.

3. With regard to the first and second objections your petitioner begs to state that the Court abolished was the permanent Court originally established in 1843 as the European Sub-Judge's Court, with the same powers as exercised by the late Zillah Court and with nearly the same establishment as allowed for the Civil Court. It was converted into a Principal Sadr Amin's Court in 1861, and subsequently, when appointing a new Principal Sadr Amin to it in 1868, it was (apparently through an oversight of its constitution) designated "Additional" owing to the existence of another Principal Sadr Amin's Court established in 1858, although the former was the permanent Court invested with original and appeal powers and lately with Small Cause powers too, and the latter was temporarily established only to decide appeals, without original jurisdiction and with a limited establishment, and was properly an Additional Court.

4. The appeal file here being so reduced as not to require more than the ordinary Civil Court and one Principal Sadr Amin's Court, and a new Court being temporarily required at Cuddalore to clear off the appeal file there, it was the Court temporarily established to decide appeals alone that could be, and was perhaps actually intended† to be dispensed with; but instead of it the permanent Court holding the Original and Small Cause jurisdiction was abolished, apparently in consequence of the Government not having at the time been informed of the respective constitution and duties of the two Courts. Yet the facts that the abolition of the permanent Court establishment at once caused the entire cessation of the Court business on the Original, Execution, and Small Cause sides, and that a new establishment, equal to the one abolished, was since applied for and immediately sanctioned by Government, plainly show that the abolished establishment was indispensable and would not have been abolished at all if the Government had previously the necessary information before them, especially as the abolition of the other temporary Court establishment here and its transfer to a similar Court at Cuddalore (as was probably intended by the words "Temporary Additional Court" in the Government Proceedings) would have saved the necessity of providing a new establishment at an additional cost to the State.

* Vide Government Proceedings, dated 18th February 1873, No. 264.

† The aforesaid Proceedings mention "Temporary Additional Court."

5. As no new Additional Court was sanctioned, and it is impossible to suppose that a new establishment would have been provided without a new Court, it is clear that the establishment now sanctioned is in lieu of the one abolished, and that it is unjust to give the situations on such establishment to new men and refer the servants of the abolished Court to the Cuddalore Court because the latter, which was temporarily established only to decide appeals, cannot be supposed to have the same large establishment as the one abolished, and the servants of Canara not acquainted with Tamil or Telugu cannot be expected to be employed in that district.

6. As to the last objection, that Mr. Kunju Menon is not bound to appoint any one whom he does not consider fit, your petitioner begs to submit, with all deference, that it can only mean that the appointments of his Court servants depend on his own will, but it imports nothing against your petitioner's fitness. As your petitioner was employed in the permanent original Court, and Mr. Kunju Menon, being the Head Officer of the other Court, had not any opportunity of testing the fitness of your petitioner, as well as of the other servants of the abolished Court whose claims also have been passed over by him, the objection on the score of fitness is wholly gratuitous, and will appear from what follows to be only a pretence to give the Sheristadarship to another man recommended to him.

7. The remarks in the register of your petitioner's services, copy† of which is herewith submitted, will show that all the Officers, European and Native, under whom he has served have entertained a high opinion of his efficiency and character. He has passed the examination for Munsifship; was appointed Sheristadar by Mr. Muthusamy Ayyer after trying‡ his fitness and character; and was also recommended for a Munsifship by Mr. Annusamy Moodelliar§ and Mr. Vasudeva Row‖ even on the eve of the abolition of the Court. All this your petitioner trusts will satisfy your Lordship that Mr. Kunju Menon is not justified in arbitrarily setting aside, without personal trial, the opinion of the several officers who had long experience of your petitioner's fitness.

8. With a view to protect Government servants thrown out of employ by revision or abolition of establishments, and to prevent unnecessary expense to the State in granting compensation, pension, or gratuities, repeated orders have been issued by Government, and an express rule has been laid down in the Pension Code, that such servants should be provided with suitable situations when possible; but, in spite of those orders and rules, Mr. Kunju Menon has ignored the claims of the servants of the abolished Court and has not only appointed new men, but even imported* foreigners, natives of his country (Malabar), to the sore disappointment of the late incumbents of situations which he has unjustly given to others.

9. Although the Acting District Judge would not interfere in the matter on behalf of the unfortunate servants of the abolished Court, he has since interfered to get the higher situations of Sheristadar, Head Writer,† and Civil Record-keeper for the servants of his own Court, thus setting at naught the claims of the former, who had in justice and fairness every title to the situations they held, and exercising for the benefit of the latter a power which a little before he said he had not in my case, though it could have been there exercised very justifiably.

10. Hence it would appear that Mr. Kunju Menon's objection to your petitioner's re-employment did not proceed from any persuasion that he is not fit, but from a determination, in accordance with an arrangement previously made, to give the Sheristadarship to a man from the Court of the District Judge, whence he expected, in his turn, a sanction to certain objectionable appointments made by him, and that the District Judge declined to interfere on behalf of your petitioner, not because he had not the power, but the will; and your petitioner begs to submit that it is a great hardship that a ministerial servant, who has long served the Government with zeal and honesty, should suffer without help when he is deprived of his situation, for the benefit of another man, on the eve of his retirement, with prejudice to his present service and future prospects of pension.

11. Your petitioner is a servant of twenty-seven years' standing; but he is only forty-seven years old, and his total service counting for pension, according to the new rules, falls short of the necessary period to entitle him to half-pension. All the officers under whom your petitioner has served have found him an honest, efficient, and hardworking man, and it is extremely painful and hard upon him that the mere fact of the establishment having been once abolished under the circumstances represented should, on its being resanctioned with a slight modification, be made a ground to deprive him of a situation which he filled for six years continuously up to its abolition with full credit and the approbation of all the former as well as the last presiding officer, and to which he trusts he will be found, under all the circumstances of the case, to have a fair claim and title in preference to any other person.

12. In the unfortunate circumstances to which your petitioner is reduced—once by a misfortune in losing his situation by abolition, and now by the unjust refusal of the Sub-Judge to admit his claims to re-employment on a gratuitous and unwarrantable objection, thereby subjecting him to a privation both of his present service and future prospects of full pension—your petitioner ventures to throw himself on the mercy of your Lordship in Council for protection and redress of his grievances, and most humbly and submissively craves that on consideration of his long and approved services, the circumstances under which the establishment was once abolished and again sanctioned, and the loss[*] he has already suffered from privation of his situation and service, your Lordship in Council will graciously vouchsafe to order his re-appointment to the post of Sheristadar with effect from the date[†] on which the sanction for the new establishment was received.

And your petitioner will, as in duty bound, ever pray.

No. 87.

Order thereon, 19th August 1873, No. 1312.

Forwarded to the District Judge of Mangalore for report.

2. The Governor in Council directs that in filling up the appointments on the enlarged establishment of the Subordinate Judge's Court at Mangalore all qualified natives of the district who lost their employment on the late abolition of the Additional Principal Sadr Amin's Court be first enrolled, and that further requirements, if any, be supplied from the members of the Small Cause Court of Tellicherry, also lately abolished, before any new hands are engaged.

3. The District Judge will submit a list of all the available servants of the old Court and of the proposed arrangement for the new establishment, with the reasons for individual selection, for the approval of Government.

4. It was the duty of the Subordinate Judge to re-employ the qualified servants of the abolished Courts before bringing in new men to the public service, and his proceedings appear to have been arbitrary and opposed to standing orders.

Sir,

I have the honor to forward an application for pension on behalf of F. A. Saldanha, 2d Writer of the lately abolished Additional Sub Court of Mangalore. He presented his application on the 12th September last, and as it was not accompanied by his Service Book and Leave Statement, he was ordered to produce them. He put in the Service Book on the 2d October, and the Leave Statement on the 21st Idem; his services were then examined, and the entries corrected, according to the Office Indents and Diaries and verified; and the application drawn up.

2. The applicant lost his situation by abolition of the Court, and is entitled to compensation pension under Section 47. He seems to bear a good character for honesty and assiduity in the discharge of his duties. He possesses the Zillah Surgeon's certificate declaring him still fit for service; but has not yet succeeded in obtaining a suitable post.

I have the honor to be
