1. Thought service in the Supreme Court was mentioned. It seems a very hard case that it should not, but if it has been so ruled I have no more to say.

2. The applicant stated that he had been posted on the 1st July and he was certainly in the office for some time before the 26th but he does not appear to have drawn pay except from that date. The matter is not within my own knowledge.

3. The papers were submitted to me shortly before the vacation, but in a state which required further information and this I was unable to obtain while the offices were closed. After the vacation I was unable to attend to the matter for the three months during which I was acting for Mr. Weir owing to pressure of business.
