Referring to the orders of Government, Pension Department, No. 642, of the 2nd instant, I have the honor to state that, under paragraph 74, Section I, Volume I, of the Medical Code, the clerks on my office establishment are not eligible for pension, and as such I beg to inquire whether service books must be kept by them. These clerks receive Government pay, and they are in every respect Government servants; but, as the provisions of the Medical Code are distinct on the subject, it is advisable that the question should be authoritatively decided whether they will eventually be entitled to a pension from Government like the clerks on the office establishment of the Surgeon-General, Indian Medical Department, who are, I am aware, entitled to that boon.

ORDER THEREON, 13th December 1876, No. 779.

As it now appears from the foregoing report of the Controller of Military Accounts that clerks in the office of the Deputy Surgeon-General, Indian Medical Department, Trichinopoly, are paid out of a contract allowance given for writers and stationery, and are considered private servants of Government under Section 14, Civil Pension Code, it is not necessary that they should keep service books as directed in G.O., 2nd November 1876, No. 642. That Order is hereby cancelled.
