From A. C. TUPP, Esq., Officiating Accountant-General, to the Chief Secretary to Government, dated Ootacamund, 24th July 1880, No. 745-N.

Treasury Account Department.

I have the honor respectfully to request that His Grace in Council will favor me with orders on the following matter at as early a date as may be convenient. The procedure which at present obtains in this Presidency in respect of applications for retiring allowances appertaining to the Public Works Department under which such applications are passed through my office for submission to Government is, in my opinion, opposed to the provisions of the Civil Pension Code (Section 87), under which, I think, it is clear that such cases should be finally disposed of by the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, who is, under the terms of the Code as laid down for the past seven years, the Accountant-General "of his department" and therefore the last officer through whom the case should pass before reaching Government.

2. It is greatly to be regretted that the force of the abovequoted words "of his department" has been so long overlooked by my office considering the large amount of extra work which has necessarily been entailed upon it by the oversight. The result of the present practice cannot be considered satisfactory inasmuch as Public Works cases cannot be disposed of otherwise than superficially by this office, which is nevertheless held finally responsible for their correctness.

3. The fact that there are at present 120 Public Works cases awaiting disposal in the Pension Department will serve to show, allowing for the special pressure resulting from the recent extensive reductions in the Public Works Department, that the work of my office is materially affected by the present practice, and it is, I think, most expedient that the Examiner of Public Works Accounts should be held wholly responsible for all cases appertaining to his department even apart from the provisions of the Code.

4. It is necessary that the point should be formally decided by Government, as in G.O., No. 495, of 2nd October 1873, it was laid down that the Civil Accountant-General should dispose of such cases. About two months after the issue of this Order the amendment of the Civil Pension Code (Sections 84 and 87) was made by the Government of India, and Section 87 now distinctly lays down that the cases should be finally disposed of by the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, who is, under the terms of the Code, the Accountant-General of his own department (see Note 2, Section 84, Civil Pension Code). This alteration in the Code should have been brought to the notice of Government by my office, and I regret that this was not done.

5. I have, now for some time past, had a temporary establishment specially engaged for pension, work, and if the Public Works cases are retained on my file, it will be necessary to employ these temporary clerks for some time longer. The Examiner of Public Works Accounts, on the other hand, is, I believe, reducing his office largely on account of the recent reductions, and the retransfer to him of this work, which legitimately belongs to his department, may save the reduction of some of his employés and relieve Government of pensionary charges besides the expense of the temporary establishment above mentioned.

ORDER THEREON, 11th September 1880, No. 923.

The Government see no reason to continue the present arrangement, which may therefore be discontinued unless the Examiner of Public Works Accounts can show any sufficient objection.

2. It does not appear that the discontinuance of the submission of applications for retiring allowances for officers and subordinates of the Public Works Department through the Accountant-General will entail any additional labor on the Examiner's Office, where the provisions of Section 87 of the Pension Code are already conformed with, or that the retention of any establishment now found superfluous will be necessitated.

therefore the last officer through whom the case should pass before reaching Government.

2. It is greatly to be regretted, that the force of the above quoted words "of his Department" has been so long overlooked by my office considering the large amount of extra work which has necessarily ^{been} entailed upon it by the oversight. The result of the present practice cannot be considered satisfactory in as much as Public Works Cases cannot be disposed of otherwise than superficially by this office - which is nevertheless held finally responsible for their correctness.

3. The fact, that there are at present 120 Public Works Cases awaiting disposal in the Pension Department, will serve to show allowing for the special pressure resulting from the recent extensive reductions in the Public Works Department that the work of my office is materially affected by the present practice, and it is, I think, most expedient that the Examiner of Public Works Accounts should be held wholly responsible for all cases appertaining to his Department even apart from from the provisions of the Code. 389.

4. It is necessary that the point should be formally decided by Government as in the Government Order No. 195 of 2nd October 1873 it was laid down that the Civil Accountant General should dispose of such cases. About two months after the issue of this order, the amendment of the Civil Pension Code (Sections 84 and 87) was made by the Government of India and Section 87 now distinctly lays down that the cases should be finally disposed of by the Examiner of Public Works Accounts who is under the terms of the Code the Accountant General of his own Department (see Note 2, Section 84, Civil Pension Code). This alteration in the Code should have been brought to the notice of Government by my office, and I regret that this was not done.

5. I have, now for some time past, had a temporary establishment specially engaged for Pension work and if the Public Works Cases are retained on my file, it will be necessary to employ these temporary clerks for some time longer. The Examiner of Public

Public Works Accounts, on the other hand, is, I believe, reducing his office largely on account of the recent reductions and the retransfer to him of this work which legitimately belongs to his Department, may cause the reduction of some of his employees and reduce Government of Pensionary charges besides the expense of the temporary establishment above mentioned.

I have the honor to be,

Sir,

Yours obedient servant,

C. J. Everett Esq.
