For C.A.

The point not being one of which the decision rested with the H.E., I was referred to the Bank of Madras which was equally unable to instruct me as the draft was on the National Bank. On enquiry at the National Bank, I have been informed that the draft should be signed by H.E. and that the Chief Sec cannot do it without a special power of attorney on that behalf.

Please see draft order + letter below.

NOTE FOR THE S.G.R.

Refer your notes for the C.A. regarding the draft on the National Bank of Madras for Rs 1252-0-0 @ the fees paid to the Rev. A.H. Kroot for copying certain old Dutch records. You enquired & reported that the draft should be signed by H.E. the Governor & not by C.S. Before getting the draft signed by H.E. the C.A. wants it to be ascertained whether both copies of the draft should be signed or only one. One draft for the amount was forwarded subsequently, a second draft (which is only a duplicate copy) was received, in the same form, in the same wording etc. except that it is headed "second draft".

Please ascertain whether both should be signed & reply by return post as H.E. will be leaving early soon.

P.T.O.

For H.E./Ca.

On enquiry at the National bank to which the draft pertains I am given to understand that the original draft alone has to be signed by H.E. the Govr and transmitted. The 'Second draft', it is said, is intended for record in our office and need not be signed by any ~~H.E.~~ or sent out.

I have also ascertained from the Accountant Genl's office that the 'Second draft' is not required for record there. Its use is only when the original is by some accident lost before being cashed, in which event intimation will have at once to be given to the Bank and the duplicate will have to be produced. So it must be carefully preserved till the transaction comes to a close.
