By order of the C.S.
I have to inform you in reply to your letter of the date the 14th, that as the walls of the building under construction for the Electric Telegraph Office in the Fort are already considerably raised, the building ought not to be any more raised, and even if it were required.

Sir

The Managers of the Government Office
Public Department
Fort Saint George

Sir

Hearing that the construction of the rooms intended for the occupation of this Office is now in progress and that insufficient ground is selected for the same, I beg to bring to your notice that 4 rooms are necessarily required to place the Office in a convenient and desirable state - The 1st should be reception, the second Signalling, the 3rd Store and the 4th Dining rooms.

The secrecy to be observed in all the Telegraph Office and the rule prohibiting the entrance of strangers into the Signalling room without permission, would, I trust speak in favor of the 4th two rooms named above, as those that have business may step into the reception room and get it done without infringing the Rule of the Department. Dining and Store rooms are required, the former for the Signallers to take their meals the latter for the respectability of the Office as scattering the Stores either in the Signalling or reception rooms where Gentlemen may come, would not be pleasing to them, as indeed the old Office was, which was entirely owing to the narrowness of the place allotted to it. Another advantage can be attained by having Store room and that is should enlighten European or East Indian Signaller be ordered to do duty here, it may be arranged as to answer for their dining in it.

Under these circumstances, I beg

You will kindly be pleased to submit this to the favorable consideration of the Chief Secretary to Government and obtain that Gentleman's permission for the extension of the grounds so as to contain 4 rooms as was 4th proposed by me and printed out in the plan.

I beg to remain Sir
Your most obedient servant
