At the end of the 19th century, science gave the first step towards the solution of the problem of the origin of the world. The first step was the discovery of the fact that the world is not eternal, but that it has a beginning. This discovery was made by the geologists, who found that the rocks of the earth were of different ages, and that the oldest rocks were of a different composition from the younger rocks. This discovery led to the discovery of the fact that the world was created by a process of evolution, and that the world is not eternal, but that it has a beginning.
