RESOLUTION.—The Governor General in Council observes that until recently Covenanted Civil Servants were required to pass examinations in the vernacular languages of India after their arrival in the country, and were restricted from the dates of their arrival to the dates on which they were declared qualified for the public service to allowances termed salary, house-rent, and pundit allowance, the aggregates of which varied from Rupees 250 to Rupees 380 per mensem; but as under the system since introduced, they will have passed examinations in the vernacular languages and in law before their departure from England, there is no longer any necessity for a difference between their allowances in India, before and after they are posted to the public service. His Excellency in Council is therefore pleased to rule that every Covenanted Civil Servant who has passed for the service under the new system referred to above, shall, from date of arrival at the Presidency to which he belongs, be entitled to a salary of Rupees 400 per mensem.
