Proceedings of the Madras Government, Public Department, 13th October 1870.

No. 88. Read the following letter from the Health Officer, Madras, to the Chief Secretary to Government, Fort Saint George, dated Madras, 17th September 1870:—

When the Contagious Diseases' Act was put in force, a Head Office for the Health Department was sanctioned, and a rental of Rupees 80 per mensem was allowed. The Government having no use for the Police Office at Vepery, it was made over to the Department at the above-named rental. Further accommodation being shortly afterwards required for the patients than the Black Town Lock Hospital could afford, the Police Office was made over for a branch hospital, and I was requested to provide my own office arrangements. A small bungalow has since been rented at Rupees 35 per mensem, which has also served as an examination office for prostitutes, thereby leaving a balance of Rupees 45 a month to the credit of Government. Some inconvenience is now found in the number of prostitutes requiring weekly examination having to pass through the office amongst the writers and other subordinates to the examination room. I have, therefore, the honour of requesting that you will obtain sanction of Government for my being permitted to rent another small bungalow, at 30 or 35 Rupees a month, in addition, for my writing establishment. You will perceive that there will then be left a small credit to Government out of the sanctioned sum of Rupees 80.

No. 89. ORDER THEREON, 13th October 1870, No. 1289.

The arrangement proposed, in the letter above recorded, is sanctioned.

Sir,
When the Contagious Diseases Act was first introduced a Head Office for the Department was sanctioned, and a rental of Rs 10 per annum was allowed. The Government having no use for the Police Office at Vepery, the same was handed over to the Department at the above named rental. Further accommodation being shortly afterwards required for the patients, that the Black Town Lock Hospital could afford, the Police Office was made over for a branch Hospital, and Government were obliged to provide my own office arrangements. A small building has since been rented at Rs 8 per annum which has also served as an Examination Office for prostitutes thereby leaving a balance of Rs 25
