No. 136.

MEMORANDUM.

With reference to the two letters from Colonel Wilson and the Controller of Public Works Accounts, which have been circulated with the Proceedings of Government, approving of the allotment of accommodation in Chepauk building, I have the honour to recommend that the Superintending Engineer should be moved into the building at present occupied by the Controller, and then half the large room which was apportioned for the Superintending Engineer's Office can be handed over to Colonel Wilson, giving him further space of 27 feet $\times$ 100 = 2,700, which, with 2,200 superficial feet already given, will be 4,900 feet or rather more than he requires.

2. I do not think that the Controller's Office will be too large for the Superintending Engineer, who has a very large quantity of records consisting of orders, &c., of the Revenue Board for several years, as well as the records of the Deputy Chief Engineers of the whole Presidency.

3. Should there, however, be any spare room, the Office of the Civil Architect could also be taken into the building.

4. This might be sent to Colonel Wilson to see if he approves, and then the substance be sent to Government for approval.

MADRAS, 4th September 1871. (Signed) C. V. WILKIESON.

Submitted for the early orders of Government. The other members of the Committee have no objection to Colonel Wilkieson's proposal.
