

Diagrams, but as the same difficulty would have arisen in the lithographing and printing the Birth and Death diagrams and as these always were compared with the others, they too were omitted.

2. I have the honor to solicit instructions, whether Government, under these circumstances, require these diagrams to be published in future reports. There will be no difficulty in my office in sketching and plotting them, only arrangements ought to be made for lithographing and printing them. If Government require their continuance, I have to request that instructions may be issued to the Government Lithographic and Revenue Survey Departments to undertake the work.

3. I may add that the Government Lithographic Department may not be able to undertake the lithographing and printing of the Rainfall and Prices of food diagrams, as these require to be done on a reduced scale and that office does not possess the photographic appliances appliances for the purpose, which the Revenue Survey Department possesses. They may, however, do the Birth and Death diagrams.

4. The Revenue Survey Department printed these diagrams for 1877 and 1878 and it is only those for 1879 they objected doing without the orders of Government.

Sir,

I have the honor, with reference to the concluding sentences of paras 2 and 4 of G.O. No 1491, dated 7th October 1880, reviewing the Sanitary Report for 1879, to state that I had not lost sight of the instructions of Government in regard to the publication of Diagrams tables of Rainfall and Prices of food and of Births and Deaths. I had the several Diagrams prepared, when a difficulty arose in lithographing and printing the former set of them, which necessitated a reference to Government, and Government Res. in G.O. No 683, dated 16th June 1880, directed that they might be dispensed with. Hence this omission in the Report for 1879. This however refers only to the Rainfall and Prices of food
