For Mr. H. C. Francis
for his patronage
of the "The unrepealed
Acts of the India Council"

3/162
THE UNREPEALED ACTS OF THE INDIA COUNCIL.

I have arranged to bring out on the 1st of January next, the above Acts in monthly parts by monthly subscriptions of Rs. 4 only, payable in advance.

Each part will contain 500 pages, which will be numbered consecutively till the entire work is finished.

The work will be supplemented with an index to the titles of the Acts in the same form as the "Indian Statute Indicator," so that any required Act may be turned up in a moment.

Each part will be in the hands of each subscriber in the first week of each month; and the entire work, when finished, may be bound in four or more handy volumes.

To subscribers, especially those with limited means, the above mode of publication offers two great advantages: 1st, they will obtain the whole of the unrepealed Acts up to the end of 1880 at almost cost price; 2ndly, the subscriptions, being payable monthly, will be within the easy means of the poorest, who could not afford to pay a lump sum for the entire work when finished.

To non-subscribers the work will be sold at double the rates above-mentioned. As a limited number of extra copies will be struck off, non-subscribers may not hereafter have an opportunity of purchasing the work.

The entire work is likely to be finished in six months, so that the total amount of subscriptions will be about Rs. 24—a very small sum compared to the price at which Mr. Stokes's volumes of the Acts (which extend no further than 1876) are sold. The Acts from 1876 to 1880 (if purchased separately to complete Mr. Stokes's volumes) would themselves cost more than the figure I have fixed for the whole of the Acts from the beginning up to the end of 1880. Although Mr. Stokes's Acts are certainly valuable compared with the older editions of other compilers, yet, as I have stated above, they do not extend further than 1876, and their prices are simply prohibitory. For instance, the Acts of the India Council as published by him are spread over eleven volumes,—the first three containing general Acts in force throughout India; the fourth containing such of the Acts of the India Council as are in force in the Madras Presidency; the fifth, those in force in Oudh; the sixth, those in force in the N.-W. Provinces; the seventh, those in force in British Burmah; the eighth, those in force in the Panjáb; the ninth, those in force in the Lower Provinces; the tenth, those in force in Ajmere; and the eleventh, those in force in Bombay.

Thus, if a person wished to purchase the Acts of the India Council as published in the above volumes up to 1876, he would have to pay about Rs. 95; then he would have to pay about Rs. 25 more to purchase the Acts from 1877 to 1880; whereas, if he subscribed to my edition, he would have to pay, in all, about Rs. 24 for the whole of the Acts from the beginning up to 1880.

In conclusion, it is hoped that, as a work of this kind deserves encouragement, every one into whose hands this prospectus may fall will not throw it aside, but at once send in his name and subscription. Even to those who possess old editions of the Acts the proposed work must prove a valuable addition to their library as the law has undergone such wholesale alterations that hundreds of Acts in the Indian Statute Book stand repealed, and consequently it is difficult to say, when turning to an Act, whether it is in force or not.

Subscriptions for the copy must be sent in before the 15th December. Mofussil subscribers will have to pay 2 annas extra for postage and packing.

The Law Publishing Press,
Calcutta, the 18th December, 1885

The Secretary to the Government of Madras.

Sir,

I have the honor to request you will be good enough to lay the accompanying prospectus before His Honor the Lieutenant Governor.

2. I beg to state that, should His Honor be pleased to extend his patronage to the work, I am prepared to make a reduction of 25 per cent. in the rates.

3. As the printing of the work will be commenced in the beginning of January, I beg you will be good enough, should His Honor decide to purchase copies of the work, to communicate his intentions to me at your earliest convenience, so that I may strike off a larger number of copies than at present subscribed for.

I have the honor to be,
Sir

Your most obedient servant,
De Craenburgh
