Para 11.

The term of the year 1861, 62-63 can expect a substantial collection of after about 24, 25 to 27 per cent. Under ordinary circumstances they would obtain the stipend 17 or 18 per cent.

Para 21.

In partial relief of the non-receipt of the stipend the year 1856 might be obtained by inducing civilians to retire who have served for more than 21 years but have not qualified by the necessary service of residence for their benefits.

Para 22.

Offering the service of retirement to the year 1861, 62-63. then if necessary extending it to 1860-64.

Para 36. Continuation of return.

Para. 61. Kadas - (Whole para).

Para 76. It seems evident that the J. C. S. will never attract the ablest men so long as its appointments are so classified that the pay-bills of the officers ~~are~~ classified have & spend a very large portion of their term of service in the performance of unimportant and impossible duties on low salary. To make the J. C. S. attractive the lower appointments must be paid with such relation to the higher & better paid appointments that men entering it may feel assured of regular & comfortable and reasonable intervals.
