Office Note

In reply to endorsement dated 8th February 1889 on para 6 of letter from the Examiner of Public Works Accounts, No. 28 dated 11th Jan'y 1889 referred to the Public Department for remarks, the undersigned states that if the Standing Orders and forms ^{which} are urgently required, are so marked, and are sent to the Press exactly as required to be printed, they can be set up in the Government Press as expeditiously as in any other similar institution in Madras. Much of the delay complained of is occasioned in the Examiner's own office: proofs are often required three and four times, are frequently altered, re-altered and added to, and are sometimes kept for days before return to the Press.

2. Undersigned submits a statement showing the progress of the Standing Orders and forms now longest in hand. If the orders and forms are of such a nature as to require, from change of circumstances, frequent alterations while passing through the Press, perhaps Government may consider it unadvisable to have them set up with the expedition suggested. The ordinary work of the Press must sometimes give way, especially in the Job and Book Departments, to work of more emergent nature, and it would be well that the emergency of a work should be well determined before being classed as

"urgent."

(6). It would be a great convenience, and would, I think, materially expedite the clearing off of arrears of Code work, if I might be allowed to arrange for the printing of standing orders by the Lawrence & Ashmun Press.
I find that it takes on an average about three months to get a batch of standing orders, or forms through the press counting from the date on which the copy is first sent to the date

date on which the standing orders or forms are finally received after striking off, and it has sometimes taken nearly six months. As far as the press is concerned, the delay is no doubt unavoidable, and due to heavy work, but the delay very seriously increases the difficulty of getting the work done as regards my share in it, and that of my office. It makes all the difference in the work, whether I get the proof and second and third proofs if required, promptly whilst the subject is fresh in the memory of all concerned, or whether every body concerned has time to forget of the detail of the subject in the intervals. In the latter case, the trouble of mastering the details of the subject has to be renewed on each occasion, and the difficulty of the work is very greatly increased, and when, as often happens, three or four months hang together, being connected in some way, the inconvenience is enhanced. If I might get the printing done at at the Lawrence Asylum Press, I could generally count on getting proofs a day or two after sending copy to the press.
