My dear Sir,

I am desirous to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of 14/32 Public dated the 30th August last on the subject of the power of the Local Government in regard to the appointment and promotions of Statutory Civilians. Since your letter was received the Government of India has learnt the decision of the Secretary of State on the Public Service Commission's report, but as it will take some time to issue official orders on the matter, it is considered desirable to advise you semi-officially of the views of the Government of India on the points raised by the Madras Government.

As far as substantive appointments in the future are concerned the question is settled by the orders contained in the Despatch from the Secretary of State (1014 Public) dated 12 September 1889 copy of which has been communicated to you semi-official

demiofficially. Such statutory Civilian select not to enter the Provincial Service will (see para. 22 of the Despatch) have to be appointed under the Act of 1870 every time they obtain a step. Similarly (para 17) in appointing to offices reserved for members of the Provincial Service the powers given by the Act of 1870 are to be cited.

There remains the question whether special sanction is required when an Assistant Magistrate is appointed to officiate as a Joint Magistrate, a Magistrate or a Judge. The rules issued under the Notification of 29th August 1879 permit Local Governments to nominate natives of India for employment in the Magistrate's Covenanted Civil Service subject to the approval of the Governor General in Council. These rules are universally admitted to be faulty, but ^{they seem} would admit of temporary or even permanent promotions being made by a Local Government. The Governor General in Council will not interfere with any past appointments, permanent or temporary, made by Local Governments and will make clear in the rules that are to be issued in connection with the provincial services what restrictions, if any, are to be placed on the power of appointment given by section 6 Act 33 Vict. c. 3, to Local Governments. Meanwhile the present practice may be continued.

Yours truly,

C. D. Galt

The Honble J. F. Price
Chief Secy to the Govt of Madras.
