[Despatch Abstract.]

*Considering that no special remuneration need be paid to the gentlemen named for the services they rendered
at the Statutory C. S. Exam.*

I don't think these young gentlemen at large need for anything. I have heard of a civilian getting any charge for superintending exam.
23/4

There is a difference between examining when Civilian has other duties to perform, and Superintending when Civilian has no other duties to perform. In the former case a considerable sum is justly earned and taken. In the latter & thank the young men are well enough paid in remuneration for a month - for really doing nothing except superintending the examination.
