SIR,

N^o 170 Pub. G. 19-2-89N^o 698 Pub. G. 19-8-89

In reference to the orders of Government noted in the margin hereof. I have the honor to submit herewith, two separate statements showing the extent of Venereal affections for the last 5 years, both among the Civil population and British troops, as indicated by the number treated in the various Civil and Station Hospitals in the City of Madras.

2/ These figures give but an imperfect idea as to the prevalence of "Venereal Diseases" in the city, as those suffering from this class of disease do not generally seek relief at the hospitals so long as they can avoid it.

3/ The statistics of 1890 show an improvement over the previous years in the matter of sickness among the troops, but the type of disease for which they were mostly admitted is reported to have been of a more virulent character, necessitating a prolonged stay at the hospitals for recovery.
