Remarks by the Protector of Emigrants.

The S.S. "Amata" arrived here from Natal on the 29th December last, with 233 returned emigrants for Madras and about 50 for Calcutta. Those for this port were at once landed and inspected by the Resident Apothecary of the Monegas Cholera Hospital for the Medical Inspector and myself. Of these 29 paid their own passage and the rest made up of free & paid emigrants and paupers were despatched to their respective homes at the expense of the Colonial Government.

The emigrants brought savings to the extent of £3000, but particulars as to the amount brought by each individual are not available.

There were 22 invalids, three of whom were lepers. There were 2 deaths during the voyage.

The emigrants looked healthy and seemed on all exceedingly satisfied with the treatment they had received both on board and in the Colony. They spoke in high terms of Dr Ingram's kindness during the passage. One of the lepers was in a truly horrible condition and it is a question whether he should have been allowed to embark with the risk of spreading the disease.
