The accompanying file relates to an estimate of Rs. 5630 for the construction of a store room at the Lunatic Asylum, Calicut, which is submitted by the Surgeon General for approval with reference to G.O. of 22.6.91, No. 402.

Honorable Members are agreed that there is no necessity for the room for kerosene oil provided in the estimate and also that a lean-to shed would be sufficient for firewood. In his first note the Hon. Mr. Stokes is of opinion that the condiment store is unnecessarily large but the Hon. Mr. Garstin does not object to its size and considers it would be difficult to reduce it. The Hon. Member is also of opinion that the veranda provided at each

As my hon. colleagues are agreed that a certain number of alterations should be carried out, another plan should be prepared showing a smaller condiment room, and generally of a less costly character.

Hon. Mr. Stokes with reference to the Hon.
Mr. Garstin's remark that he does not object to the size of the condiment store.

J.H.G. 15/9
(3) I cannot see any difficulty in reducing the size of the condiment store, and as condiments in the diet are twice as 1 to 20 or more, it seems ridiculous to provide rooms of the same size for the two.

(4) The condiment
room of 12 ft by 12 ft is not too big. It can in any case be divided by 2 or 3 small tables 5 ft high dividing the room into little compartments for storing various things other than condiments.
