their livelihood on the Government in whose interest they have been working should make some provision to keep them from want in their old age. The present mode of disposing of these Coolies by the Mauritius Government is only adding to an already famine threatened population. I was told that these Coolies insisted on being returned, but I very much question the truth of this statement. They seemed to me to be perfectly indifferent. There were 7 lepers.
 They were all of them in a most horrible condition and should not in my opinion have been sent on board with the very serious risk of spreading the disease.
 It is doubtful whether they could have been properly isolated on board.
 I arranged with some difficulty to have them admitted into the Leper Hospital.
 There were no deaths and no births.

The S.S. 'Tutala' arrived here with 227 reformed Emigrants from Madras from Mauritius on the morning of the 29th ultimo. The Coolies were at once landed and the usual inspection by the Medical Inspector and myself was made.
 There were no complaints of any note and the Coolies expressed themselves highly pleased with the treatment they had experienced both on board and in the colony. 61 paid their passage back. 11 were sent to hospital and the rest were returned to their respective destinations. With the exception of the passengers all were liberally provided. Some of these were very old and infirm and scarcely likely to live out another year and a few of them told me that they had no relations left in the world.
 They all hoped however to get some assistance in the neighbourhood of their old homes. I consider it very hard that they should be returned to this Country more dead than alive rather to be let loose upon the world and to risk dying from hunger or disease or to be mere hangers on to some already pauper family. Emigrants of this kind should be returned, if at all, when they have still
