15th February 1893 No 2. Medical, I am directed to inform you that although there are instances in this Presidency in which hospital assistants are supplied with free quarters, the practice is not general and no house rent is allowed in lieu of such quarters. Almost all the ^{Chief} hospital assistants in this Presidency are under municipalities and local boards and the former in Council does not consider it desirable to make any addition to their emoluments in the shape of allowances for house rent and thus to impose a further liability on the funds from which these subordinates are paid. No objection is however raised when local bodies propose to provide free quarters for their subordinates in proximity to the hospitals which they maintain, but there is no general requirement that the Hosp. Assistants should live near their work.

The case of the few subordinates directly employed under Govt should be governed by the same rules as those for the rest, working under local bodies.

Yours etc.

under the Civil Service regulations. There is no knowing at what stations these subordinates will be employed. The supply of free quarters is therefore in their case out of the question. They have not given to them instead, will virtually be an addition to their salary and it is submitted that there are no sufficient grounds for such a concession.

There seems to be a man sent on Famine or Cholera duty draw travelling allowance and seldom if ever remains for any thing but a short time at one place. If men so detached should draw house rent.

29/5/93

There is no case for a general grant of house rent to hospital assistants. It would simply be an increase to their pay which Govt. has decided to be unnecessary. I agree with C.S. in to Hosp. Assist. Employment on Famine or Cholera duty.

order. 13th June 1893. N^o 456

The Govt. raises no objection where local bodies propose to provide their hospital assistants with free quarters in proximity to the hospitals which they maintain, but there is no case for a general grant of house rent to these subordinates in lieu of such quarters. It would simply be an increase to their pay for which there is no necessity.

2. With reference to the Surgeon General's recommendation on behalf of hospital assistants employed on Famine and Cholera duty, it is observed that they draw travelling allowance and seldom if ever remain at one place for any length of time. In these circumstances there is no reason why they should draw house rent.

FROM

C. J. LYALL, Esq., C.I.E.,
Secretary to the Government of India.

To

Home Department, Medica.

SIR,

Calcutta, the 25th February 1893.

IN connection with the question of improving the position and prospects of Hospital Assistants in civil employ, it has recently been suggested to the Government of India that a general rule should be laid down to the effect that all Hospital Assistants who are employed in sanctioned appointments, as opposed to those doing general duty, should be allowed free quarters or house-rent in lieu thereof. The Government of India understand that the practice of allowing free quarters or house-rent to Hospital Assistants when employed in sanctioned posts is now generally adopted in all Provinces on the ground that they are required to reside close to the scene of their work. I am to enquire whether this is the case in the

and also whether see any objection to a rule such as that proposed being made absolute.

I have the honour to be,

SIR,

Your most obedient Servant,

C. J. LYALL,

Secretary to the Government of India.
