Proposing that Assistants who pass out of College in any one year should be placed at his disposal as Reserve meet the emergencies.

The Orders

The Surgeon General reports that Hospital Assistants on the Reserve are posted to new dispensaries and subsequently when emergencies arise there is often no Reserve to draw upon until the passing of the next batch of Hosp^l Assts from the College at present in some districts the smaller dispensaries are closed for the time being Hosp^l Assts are sent out for the emergency duty. The Surgeon General therefore proposed to go a step further and lay down a general rule that Hosp^l Assts who have passed out of the College though posted to any dispensary should be held to be on Reserve duty till the passing of the next batch of Hosp^l Assts out of the College and be available for emergency duty any where in the same district from which they may be taken out or elsewhere. He does not propose to increase the Reserve staff itself, for it would result in the increased cost of training a larger number of men in the College and maintaining some hands on the Reserve without particular work for some time. When in the last year 20 pupils were admitted into the College each year and only 7 passed out each year as Hosp^l Assts whether in the College or on the Reserve staff their charges are debited first to Govt funds and then accounted for to local friends. Therefore the proposal of the Surgeon

Order 10 March 93 p 200.

The Surgeon General's proposal [seems to me] not to touch the root of the matter, which is the insufficiency of the numbers of men being trained. He should report more fully how this is to be got over. If the Medical College can't turn out sufficient men either its capacity should be increased or students reduced; or provision should be made for developing up Country schools, such as that at Tanjore. Meanwhile [his] present proposal [is] accepted. It must exercise his discretion whether the emergency duty for which demands are made is such as to justify the withdrawal of Hospital Assistants from dispensaries to which they have been posted.

Surgeon General seems worthy of being given a trial, especially as it is also reported that there is no accommodation in the College for enlisting an increased number of students: but the objection might be met by replying that the numbers of private students at the College should be reduced -

SIR,

In continuation of my letter no. 26 dated the 14th January 1893, I have the honor to enclose copy of a telegram received from the President District Board Kistna requesting me to depute 2 Hospital Assistants for cholera duty in the District.

2. It shows the strong necessity for some such rule as I have proposed viz, that all Hospital Assistants who pass out of College in any one year should be considered on the reserve - and therefore at my disposal - in case of emergency, - whether they are appointed to newly opened Dispensaries or not during that year. In this instance I have wired to the President District Board that he already has two subordinates from the Reserve - one of whom being

To
THE Chief Secretary to Government,

SIR,

With reference to G.O. No: 738 dated 26 October 1892 Public, I have the honour to point out that the opening of new Dispensaries yearly has considerably reduced the reserve of Hospital Assistants. During the healthy months of the year, Hospital Assistants on the reserve are posted to these new Dispensaries and subsequently when emergencies arise and before the passing of the next batch of Hospital Assistants from College, there often is no reserve to draw upon. Though I anticipated this difficulty I did not think it right to refuse the requests of Local Bodies to supply them with Hospital Assistants on the opening of new Dispensaries when I had a number of the unemployed reserve at my disposal. But the difficulty is yearly becoming more pronounced. Some healthy districts hardly touched by Cholera or famine during
