RULES

OF THE

Friend-in-Need Society.

As revised at the Meeting, February, 1892.

I. The Society is denominated the FRIEND-IN-NEED SOCIETY, and all Subscribers to its funds are Members.

II. The business of the Society is conducted by a General and by Local Committees, elected at the Annual General Meeting; the General Committee having the power to elect its President, Secretary and Treasurer, and to fill up any vacancies in the General or Local Committees during the year.

III. The General Committee shall consist of thirty members, 16 of whom shall be members not attached to any Local Committee. Each Local Committee shall within one month after the Annual General Meeting elect two of its members as members of the General Committee.

IV. The General Committee shall meet once a month; five to form a quorum. A special Meeting may at any time be called on a requisition addressed to the President and signed by three Members of the General Committee.

V. The objects of the Society are the relief of the deserving poor and the suppression of mendicity; and the means employed for the attainment of these objects are:—(1) the provision of an Asylum, called the FRIEND-IN-NEED SOCIETY'S HOME (established 1881), for the aged, infirm, and destitute, in which they are lodged, clothed, supplied with the material necessities for health and comfort, and receive a small daily allowance for food; (2) the allotment of pensions to aged and infirm persons in whose cases exceptional circumstances exist rendering them fitter subjects for out-door than for in-door relief; (3) the establishment of a labour-yard to which members of the Society can refer all male beggars whose profession of willingness to work they desire to test; (4) the personal investigation of all the cases referred to the Society for relief; (5) the detection and exposure of imposture.

VI. The Town of Madras, with its suburbs, is divided into seven districts, each of which is under the management of its own Local Committee; so that every case is inspected on the spot, with all the advantages of local knowledge and inquiry. The Local Committees will be guided in all their operations by the orders of the General Committee and the standing Rules here laid down.

VII. The immediate subjects of the charity of the Society are resident European and East Indian Christians of every denomination, and of both sexes; who, from old age, natural infirmity, or the ordinary misfortunes of life, are reduced to distress or necessity.

Natives, having the privilege of admission to the Monegar Choultry, do not come within the plan of this Society.

VIII. Persons not usually resident in Madras, but coming from a distant station for the purpose of obtaining eleemosynary aid, are not admissible to the benefits of the Society.

IX. Persons found guilty of wilful deception, or who shall refuse to work, or to allow their children to work, or who, receiving support from the Society, shall be found begging, or leading a disorderly life, shall be considered to have forfeited their claim to aid from the Society.

X. Members are requested to refer all cases for investigation to the Paymaster of the Local Committee of the District in which the applicant resides. All applications for relief investigated by each Local Committee during the month, are to be forwarded to the Secretary to be submitted at the next Meeting of the General Committee.

XI. In cases of extreme emergency, the Paymaster shall be at liberty to afford immediate temporary relief; but all such instances shall be reported to their respective Local Committees at their next meeting.

XII. The rate of allowance to all dependents of the Society shall be fixed by the General Committee with reference to a reasonable subsistence only, and no more.

XIII. The General Committee shall have the power of engaging such servants as may be found necessary, and of paying them such reasonable salaries as they may consider right.

XIV. The monthly expenditure for the ensuing half-year shall be limited by the General Committee, subject to such revision from time to time as the state of the funds may require.

XV. A General Meeting of Subscribers shall be held annually, at which shall be rendered a report of the proceedings of the Society, and of the state of the funds; previous to which the Society's accounts shall be duly audited.

XVI. All propositions brought forward, whether at the Annual General Meeting, or at the Proceedings of the Committees shall be decided by a majority of votes, the Chairman or President having only one vote and that a casting vote.

XVII. The Pension List will be revised half-yearly.

Rules for the Guidance of Local Committees.

I. Each Local Committee shall meet once a month for the payment of Pensioners and for the consideration of applicants for relief—the Paymasters to be the convenors.

II. With a view to the prevention of fraud, the Local Committees shall meet on the same day, and at the same hour in each month, for the payment of Pensioners.

III. All applications for relief shall be personally investigated and reported upon by a Member of the Local Committee, and shall be forwarded by the Paymaster to the General Committee with the report and the specific recommendations of the Local Committee.

IV. The disbursements of the Local Committees are not to exceed the gross amount allotted to them by the General Committee.

Casual relief may be given to an individual for one month only. All applications for this must be made, unless in very exceptional cases, on the special form provided for the purpose, countersigned by some member of the Local Committee after personal enquiry into the case. If it is considered necessary to give the same person relief for a longer period, the case should be referred to the General Committee; and in sending in papers a month's allowance may be disbursed in advance as temporary relief.

V. An investigation into the circumstances of the paupers shall be made by the Local Committees at certain intervals, as they shall deem expedient, with a view to their identification, to the exposure of any imposition, and still further to ascertain whether by the improved condition of any of their immediate relatives, the Society may not be relieved of the expense of their support.

With this view every case should be reported upon at least once a year.

VI. Each Local Committee will record its monthly proceedings, and also keep a Register of its Pensioners, in the books supplied for these purposes.

VII. On the death of a Society's Pensioner, the Paymasters are authorized to incur the necessary expenditure for a plain funeral.

VIII. The Paymasters of the Local Committees will be furnished with blank Returns, one of which will be filled up monthly and forwarded to the Secretary for the information of the General Committee.

IX. Local Committees are particularly requested to be most careful in making payments to absentees; no such payments should be made without some Member of the Committee being able to vouch that no fraud is being practised.

1. From the profit and loss statement printed further on, it will be seen that taking the Workshop alone it is in a flourishing condition.

2. Having been Secretary for about two months it is impossible for me to give any particulars of the Workshop, as I should like to have done.

3. Owing to there having been four changes of Secretary and Treasurer during this year, the accounts have not been quite as regular as they might have been. Mr. Sherlock Hubbard has placed them on a better footing, and on reference to printed form further on they will be seen to be now in a flourishing condition.

4. Clothing was distributed to the women and children at Christmas, also a tea was held at the Workshop on 23rd December which old and young partook. One rupee was given to each woman for her dinner. The workers and their children have one good meal daily at the Workshop.

5. The Committee wish here to remark on Mrs. Moses' careful and efficient management of the Workshop, to her in a great measure is due the success of the Institution.

6. The Ladies' Committee returns grateful thanks to one and all the Public Institutions and Offices which have employed the Workshop this last year and thereby helped to keep up the Funds of the Workshop to their present flourishing condition.

7. Attached to the Workshop is a Savings Club, ably looked after by Mrs. Underwood, whereby the women are encouraged to save their money, and it is astonishing the sums they are saving out of the small amount they make.

8. The thanks of the Committee are also due to Mr. Sherlock Hubbard for the kind assistance he has given in auditing the accounts.

Hony. Secretary.

The number of women employed in the Egmore Women's Workshop at the beginning of 1892, was 78. Of these, three have died, one became insane and was removed, at the request of her friends, to the Lunatic Asylum, two have married and have left the Workshop and there were a few other changes, but vacancies were quickly filled up, leaving a total at the end of the year, of 72 women. The women's earnings amount to Rs. 3,477-15-1—Rs. 529-12-6 in excess of those of last year, a fact which the Committee record with pleasure, but at the same time they would remind the public, that even this large sum, does not average Rs. 4 a month to each worker, and they therefore earnestly ask for more orders during the ensuing year, both for coarse and fine workers.

Many of the women are entirely dependent, and most of them are mainly so, for their own support and that of their children, upon what they can earn in the Workshop and it will thus be seen that the appeal issued yearly, by the Committee for subscriptions towards Christmas clothing and gifts, is a very reasonable one. As however, the Central Charity Fund has been organised, the Egmore Workshop appeal will probably not be sent out next Christmas and the Committee trust that those who subscribe to this Fund, will remember the Workshops with their large number of industrious and needy women.

The Christmas collection this year, fell Rs. 27 short of the amount required, which deficit was made up, out of the Funds of the Workshop. The sums collected were—

The total amount of subscriptions and donations during the year (including Christmas) was Rs. 822-8-0 as against

Rs. 842-4-0 in 1891. While thanking the public for its kind support, the Committee plead for increased interest to be taken in the Workshop and for new friends to come forward in the place of many who have left Madras.

The Charity Branch has continued to pay for the schooling of four children in Mrs. Firth's Industrial School and Infants' Home, a Dhobee for women, and sick allowance in the case of all who bring a properly signed certificate. A gift of clothing was made at Midsummer, and gratuities were given in cases of births, marriages and death. The Workshop has paid its own rent throughout the year.

Mrs. Janes continues to carry out her work as Superintendent very efficiently, and Mrs. Jervis as Assistant Superintendent has also proved very useful.

In conclusion the Committee gratefully thank all who have helped them by orders or subscriptions during the past year, and they also wish to thank Mr. Sowden and Mr. Hill for kindly auditing the accounts.

JANE A. WEDDERBURN,
Honorary Secretary.

This Workshop still continues its useful work. It has given employment to a number of the poor women of Black Town. There are about 43 on the rolls. Work, however, has at times been scarce, especially coarse work and in consequence many of the women who cannot do fine work have been obliged to be sent away. We still supply the work to the Leper Hospital, and the Committee feel thankful to Dr. Cook for his help. Though the balance this year is on the right side, the out-side funds are scarcer than they were. The Ladies' Committee, however, look forward to the time when more work and larger subscriptions will mean more self-help for those who need it, and are willing to help themselves.

The Friend-in-Need Committee have last year again paid the rent of the Workshop, for which the Ladies' Committee feel very grateful and trust that it may be kindly continued during the current year, for without it, we are doubtful whether we can continue the Workshop. F. Rowlandson, Esq., has very kindly consented to become President of the Ladies' Committee.

The Committee now take this opportunity of thanking all those who have kindly assisted the Workshop during the past year. We are working for others and God must bless us. May He open the hearts of his children to help us.

MINNIE DAVIES, Honorary Secretary.

OF THE

SUPPLEMENTARY WORKSHOP, CHRIST'S CHURCH SCHOOL ROOM.

The Workshop has continued its work throughout the year, the women and girls meeting twice in the week. The help given to the very poor is much needed.

In the sewing class the girls are instructed in the different kinds of needle-work; the women make their own clothes, also articles for sale.

A New Year's meal was given to 30 women and 10 girls on New Year's Eve and a small sum added for cooking.

Annexure of Resolution No. 1247 S.R., dated 25th March 1893.

Extract, paragraphs 3 to 7 and 10, from a letter from the Director General of the Post Office of India,—No. 14939, dated 28th February 1893.

3. The first question that has had to be considered is which of these services should be retained as future mail services, and I am of opinion that, with one or two exceptions, they should all be retained subject to certain improvements in the character of the services which will be referred to later on. The weekly service between Madras and the Coromandel ports will no longer be required for the conveyance of mails when the East Coast Railway from Bezwada to Cuttack has been opened. The first section of this railway up to the Godavery was opened for traffic on the 20th instant, and it is expected that further sections providing communication with Cocanada and Vizagapatam will be opened during the course of the present year. Line No. 8, therefore, in the supplemental contract may be dispensed with, and so also may line No. 4 in the main contract so far as the contract calls at the Coromandel ports are concerned. Provision is made in the existing contract, it may be added, for the revision of both these lines, even during the currency of this contract, in case of railway extension on the Coromandel coast. It will also be unnecessary to retain line No. 9 in the supplemental contract if a daily direct service between Tuticorin and Colombo be established as I have recommended further on. The main directions in which the Post Office may properly look for an improved service are in the communications between India and Burma, in the communications between Bombay and Karachi, and in the communications between India and Ceylon, and each one of these cases will be dealt with separately.

4. The present communications with Burma comprise the services between Calcutta and Rangoon, and the services between Madras and Rangoon. There are now two direct steamers in the week between Calcutta and Rangoon, the first of which runs in connection with the overland mails at a contract rate of speed of 10 knots an hour, while the second practically occupies the same time on the voyage though there is no rate of speed laid down. Both steamers should be made regular contract steamers for the future, and the speed for the service in connection with the overland mails should be raised to 12 knots an hour, a speed of not less than 10 knots being prescribed for the second service. As regards the Madras services, the direct steamer that has been running since October 1890 at irregular intervals of 8 or 9 days should be made a regular weekly steamer under contract, also with a prescribed rate of speed of 12 knots. The close relations now subsisting between the Madras Presidency and Burma render the establishment of a direct mail service between Madras and Rangoon necessary, and the amount of correspondence to be carried is already important, though materially less than the amount exchanged between Calcutta and Rangoon. Special statistics were recorded on this subject for the month of September last, and the results are given below. The total number of inland articles of all descriptions despatched from Madras to Burma was 78,382, and the total number received from Burma was 44,525, while during the same period the total number despatched from Calcutta to Burma was 243,507 and the total number received at Calcutta was 120,610. I further propose that if a new contract be entered into for a term of ten years, it should be stipulated that the rate of speed for the service that carries the overland mails between India and Burma should be the subject of reconsideration after five years. The existing contract with the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company will expire at the beginning of 1898, and in any future contract for the conveyance of mails between Brindisi and Bombay a quicker transit will, no doubt, be provided, the present contract rate of speed being about 12½ knots. It does not follow that the rate of speed that can properly be claimed on an ocean line can also be introduced in the Bay of Bengal; this matter is dealt with more at length later on; but I think it advisable, in the postal interests of Burma, that power at any rate should be reserved, under a new contract, to re-open, if necessary, the question of the rate of speed after it is known what the future rate of speed is to be between Brindisi and Bombay.

5. The communications between Bombay and Karachi consist of the services provided by lines No. 5 and No. 6 of the main contract, viz., a weekly direct service in connection with the arrival and departure of the Peninsular and Oriental mail steamers with a prescribed rate of 10 knots an hour, which can be worked also in connection with the Company's line No. 7 between Karachi and Basra, and a second weekly service via the Coast ports of Kathiawar and Cutch. The improvement, I would recommend here, would be the provision of three services in the week instead of two as at present, two of which would be direct and one a coasting service, and the introduction of a materially increased rate of speed for the steamer that runs in connection with the outward and homeward Peninsular and Oriental mail steamer. The distance by sea between Karachi and Bombay is 495 sea miles and the present time allowed for the voyage except during the monsoon is 49½ hours. I propose that the new rate of speed should be fixed at 13 knots an hour, which would mean a contract voyage of 38 hours with an additional time allowance for the monsoon. Without going into details it may be said that the practical effect of this will be to give to the Karachi public an extra day for posting correspondence for the homeward mail, and in a great majority of cases to provide a delivery on the morning of the second day after the arrival of the Peninsular and Oriental outward mail steamer in Bombay, in the place of the present evening delivery on that day or morning delivery on the 3rd day. In this case where the distance is so short that a special service can be provided by putting on two suitable steamers, it is directly contemplated that special steamers should be provided for the purpose.

6. The question of bringing the overland mails direct to Karachi instead of Bombay, or of establishing a link line between Karachi and Aden in connection with the Peninsular and Oriental contract service, has been raised on various occasions in the past, as Government are aware, and the matter has been again pressed on my attention by the Karachi Chamber of Commerce with reference to the new arrangements for the mail services now maintained by the British India Steam Navigation Company. The establishment of the link line would no doubt complete the mail service with the United Kingdom, and the subject may appropriately receive full consideration in all its bearings when that service next comes under review. It does not properly fall within the scope of the present arrangements, though I have ascertained that the British India Steam Navigation Company could only undertake to establish such a line on payment of a very high subsidy, and in view of the material increase in the loss on the service with the United Kingdom owing to the late reductions in postage rates, and the existing financial pressure, the question cannot be said to be a practical one at the present time. Should it be found advisable to provide a direct line between Karachi and Aden hereafter, there will be no difficulty in arranging for a revision of the fast service now proposed between Bombay and Karachi.

7. The communication with Ceylon consists of the weekly service between Tuticorin and Colombo maintained, as line No. 9 of the supplemental contract, by the Company's steamers running from Bombay to Calcutta and back and touching at a number of Coast ports, and of a separate service twice a week between Tuticorin and Colombo direct by a small steamer employed only for this purpose. Our postal relations with Ceylon are constantly growing closer, and for some time past I have looked forward to the establishment of a daily steamer service between Tuticorin and Colombo as the proper arrangement for the exchange of mails with that country. This was pointed out to Government at the time when sanction was obtained to joining Ceylon in introducing the semi-weekly direct service already referred to, and I think that the opportunity should now be taken to provide a daily direct service. When this is done line No. 9 of the supplemental contract can be given up altogether. It has already been found since the establishment of the semi-weekly direct service that the calls of the coasting line of steamers are of little use for the purposes of the conveyance of mails.

10. I venture to add a few general remarks as to the position of the Post Office in dealing with mail services in Indian waters, with special reference to the recommendations I have made and the question of the rate of speed. In the case of these services the course of the post, if I may so express it, must, as a rule, follow the course of trade. Government cannot afford to pay for the establishment of new steam services solely for the carriage of local mails, and what has to be looked for, therefore, is the adaptation to the purposes of the Post Office of lines that owe their existence, in the first instance, to the requirements of trade. Regularity and certainty in running and, as far as possible, fixed days for departure and arrival are the essentials of a good mail service, and these constitute a much greater interference with ordinary shipping business than is generally understood. They can usually, however, be secured on payment of some moderate sum, and when the Post Office steps in to subsidise a line that is already in existence it is these essentials that have to be paid for in the main. The arrangements made during the last few years with the British India Steam Navigation Company are illustrations of what I mean. Owing to the general growth of business with Burma the Company found it desirable, in its own interests, to establish a second steamer service in the week between Calcutta and Rangoon, and our close relations with the Company enabled us to take immediate advantage of this for the conveyance of mails. When experience showed that the second steamer could be retained on business grounds, it was arranged that it should be brought under subsidy to run regularly, and as a matter of fact the departures and arrivals have been since then on fixed days of the week. The same thing occurred in connection with the direct service between Madras and Rangoon. The Company found sufficient justification, mainly on account of the coolie traffic, for starting a direct steamer at intervals of 8 or 9 days on this line, and of this also we took advantage having secured the right of utilizing for the mails any of the Company's services that might prove of assistance to the Post Office, and it is now proposed that there should be a regular weekly contract service, with a prescribed rate of speed, between Madras and Rangoon. When once this position has been understood, it will be evident that it has a very direct bearing on the question of the rates of speed to be stipulated for in a new contract. Account must be taken of the class of steamers which the companies trading in certain waters find it advisable to employ, and also of the actual conditions affecting each line. Every company, of course, of any importance has in its fleet vessels of various degrees of speed, and may be willing to guarantee a higher rate of speed on a particular line by undertaking to use only steamers that are capable of maintaining a certain speed on that line; but there are obviously practical limits to what can be done in this direction, and it has also to be remembered that on short lines there are special difficulties in the way of maintaining a high rate of speed as a contract rate, because there is no time to make up for the effects of bad weather. In fixing

12 knots for the main service between Calcutta and Rangoon and for the direct service between Madras and Rangoon, I have endeavoured to give weight to all these considerations, and believe that this is as high a rate of speed as we can reasonably hope to obtain for some years to come on payment of such a subsidy as we are justified in paying. To guarantee this rate the British India Steam Navigation Company would have to employ on these lines the fastest vessels they now have in Indian waters. I refer to the matter particularly because on the occasion of the last contract the Chief Commissioner, Burma, recommended that a 15-knot speed should be insisted on with a five-years contract. I have made special enquiries on this subject and am advised that it would be quite impossible to secure this rate of speed unless large and expensive vessels were built for the service which could not be employed with profit on account of the conditions of trade, so that they could only run on payment of a very high subsidy. With a 12-knot contract speed to maintain a company will build its new vessels for use in these waters able to steam at a higher rate of speed, and it may, therefore, be expected that after a period of five years a still higher rate of speed can be obtained without any very material increase to the subsidy.

Letter from the Director General of the Post Office of India, No. 14939, dated the 28th February 1893.

The Government of India has decided to give notice to the British India Steam Navigation Company of the termination on the 30th April 1894 of the existing contract with the Company for the conveyance of the mails in Indian waters.

Between Bombay and Karachi.

10. Direct weekly contract line between Bombay and Karachi.
11. Weekly contract line between Bombay and Karachi, calling at coast ports of Kathiawar and Catch.

- } Giving a combined tri-weekly service.

From Burma to the Straits.

15. Weekly non-contract line from Rangoon to Penang and Singapore.

3. As the present contract will terminate on the 30th April 1894, it must now be considered which of these services should be retained after that date as mail services. The Director General of the Post Office of India recommends the retention as mail services of all the existing services with the exception of the combined weekly service between Madras and Rangoon (lines 4 and 5), so far as the contract calls at the Coromandel ports are concerned, and of the weekly service between Tuticorin and Colombo (line 13). He further proposes—

- (i) the introduction of a 12-knot speed in the place of the present 10-knot speed between Calcutta and Rangoon for the direct steamer that runs in connection with the overland mails, and a 10-knot speed for the second direct weekly steamer; the former rate to be subject to reconsideration on the expiry of five years should a ten-year contract be given;

- (ii) the establishment of a regular direct weekly service with a 12-knot speed between Rangoon and Madras in the place of the present direct service at irregular intervals between those two places (line 6);
- (iii) the establishment of two direct services in the week, instead of one, between Bombay and Karachi, and the introduction of a 13-knot speed for the direct service in connection with the arrival and departure of the Peninsular and Oriental mail steamers;
- (iv) the establishment of a daily direct service between Tuticorin and Colombo.

4. The Governor General in Council will be glad to be favoured with as little delay as possible with the opinions of the Local Governments on these proposals and with their views as to the lines which should be maintained as mail lines.

ORDERED, that a copy of the foregoing Resolution and of paragraphs 3 to 7 and 10 of the letter from the Director General of the Post Office, No. 14939, dated the 28th February, be forwarded to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and Bengal, and to the Chief Commissioner of Burma for the purpose indicated in paragraph 4.
