I don't quite follow the 9- District Medical & military Officer, Malabar is rect - but D. M. & S. O, Rajahmundry does not seem to me to be so. ~~If he is~~ It should I think be D. M. & S. O.
Godavari (which is a Dist whilst Rajahmundry is not).
Perhaps it would be as well to tell S. G. to draw up a list of designations. ^{with head of District Officer} In Malabar there are three Medical Officers. According to the Civil list (pages 210 - 212) all Comm.
Medical Officers in the mufassal are both Dist Med & Surg Officers & Civil Surgeons!

I think we will call view to his rearranging

the term District Surgeon has hitherto been used for those in charge of Districts, and Civil Surgeon for those in charge of Stations.

3. As it is necessary that there should be definite instructions regarding the designation of these officers, I request orders as to how they are to be termed in future. In my opinion it will be more in keeping with their appointment to call them District Medical and Sanitary officers; those in charge of Civil Stations being continued to be designated Civil Surgeons - the term "District Surgeon" should be discontinued.

I have the honor to be,
Sir,
Your most obedient servant,

Chincha
Surgeon Major Genl.
Surgeon General with

SURGEON-GENERAL WITH THE

To

THE HONORABLE THE CHIEF SECRETARY TO GOVERNMENT,

Public DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

In the Notifications published on page 1068 of the Fort St. George Gazette dated the 11th September 1894, Part I, the incumbents at Calicut and Rajahmundry, are called Civil Surgeons, although in the minute submitted with my letter No. 463 dated the 30th August 1894, they were designated as District Surgeons.

2. Prior to the promulgation of G. O. No. 391 Public dated the 22nd February 1883 the term Civil Surgeon was applicable to all medical officers in Civil medical charge of Districts and Stations, but as under the new order, those in charge of Districts were constituted District Medical and Sanitary officers, it was considered desirable to distinguish them from those holding only medical charge of a station. Accordingly
