Office Note. No. 196

From

The Chief Secretary

To

The Chief Engineer P. W. Dept

The undersigned has the honor to invite a Member to the styles of windows and doors proposed to be used for the new stall under construction for the circulation house on Stonehouse hill.
Both appear to be much too large and the plan of having the faces of the stall constructed entirely of corrugated iron seems to be unsuitable.
It would make the stall very cold at night during the monsoon, and might prove injurious to the animal. A brick wall with an ordinary wooden door and a small ventilator would seem much more suitable. The floor should slope to the centre and a small drain should lead to a bucket sunk in the ground outside, so that the floor may be kept as dry and fresh as possible. Several long stout pegs should be inserted in the walls of the horse box room.

in which to hang harness, clothing The stall will not be required for use this year.

Several long stout pegs should be inserted in the walls of the horse keeper's Godown or which to hang harness, clothing &c. The stall will not be required for use this year.
